

10 applications to help 'cricket' control remote computers

One of the advantages of a smartphone is that it has a large-sized touch screen, suitable for remote computer access. From there, anywhere users can use their phones to access applications and documents and control computers.

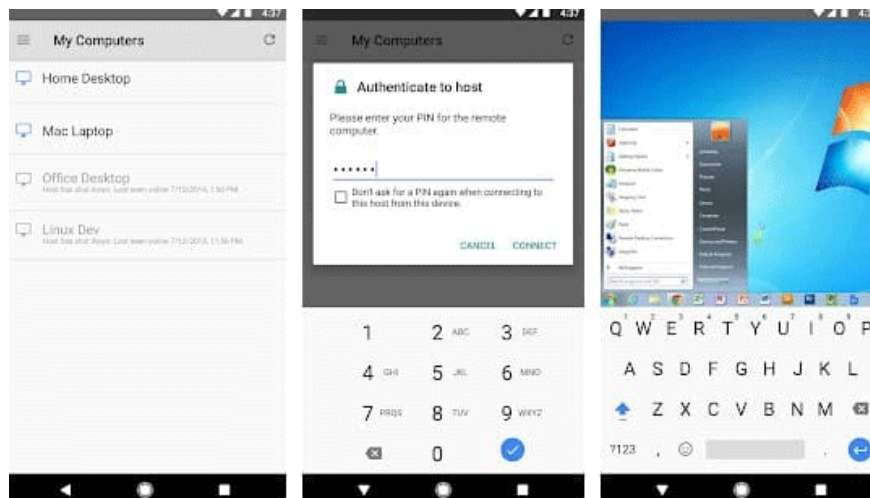

One of the advantages of a smartphone is that it has a large-sized touch screen, suitable for remote computer access. From there, anywhere users can use their phones to access applications and documents and control computers. Here are 10 best Android apps for users to easily control remote computers.

Android applications control remote computers

1. Chrome Remote Control
2. Teamviewer for Remote Control
3. Unified Remote
4. PC Remote
5. KiwiMote
6. VNC Viewer
7. Splashtop Personal
8. Remote Link
9. DroidMote
10. Microsoft Remote Desktop

1. Chrome Remote Control

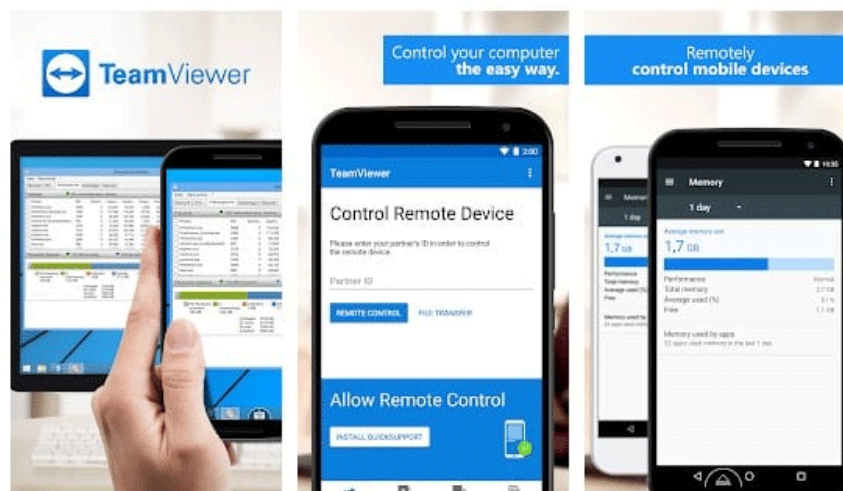

1. Download Chrome Remote Control for Android

Chrome Remote Control is one of the best Android apps you can use to control your PC. With Chrome Remote Control users only need a Google account to share screens between devices. Not only, this application is also very fast, allowing users to use Android devices such as mice to control computers. You just need to download and set up Chrome Remote Control on Chrome browser and Android app to share the screen.

2. Teamviewer for Remote Control

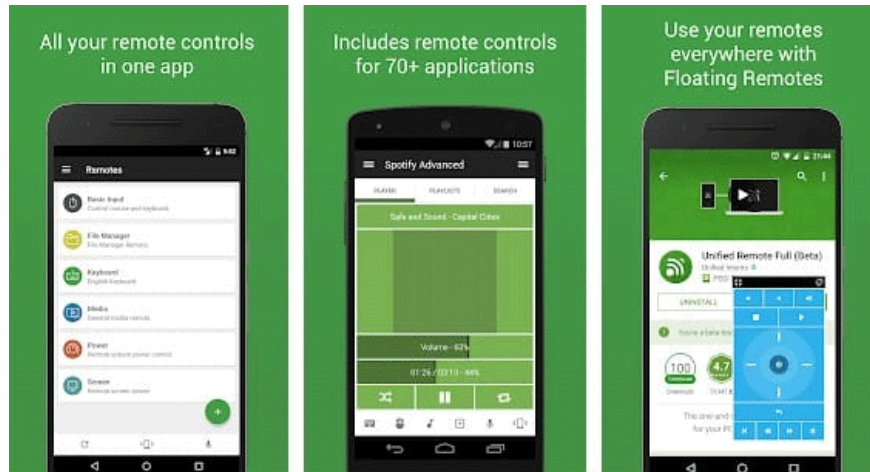

1. Download Teamviewer for Remote Control for Android

Teamviewer for Remote Control is another good Android application in the list, allowing users to control computers. This application not only controls Windows computers but also computers running macOS and Linux. The great feature of Teamviewer for Remote Control is that it does not require both devices to connect on the same Wi-Fi network to start the remote session. In addition, Teamviewer for Remote Control is also known for its ability to share screen real-time.

3. Unified Remote

1. Download Unified Remote for Android

Unified Remote is another excellent Android application on the list that allows users to control other devices remotely. The great thing about the Unified Remote is that it can use Bluetooth or Wifi to remotely control other devices like computers running on Windows, Mac and Linux. Users only need to download the Unified Remote software on their computers and mobile applications to control their PC remotely from Android. In addition, it provides file management, multimedia player control and multi-touch support.

4. PC Remote

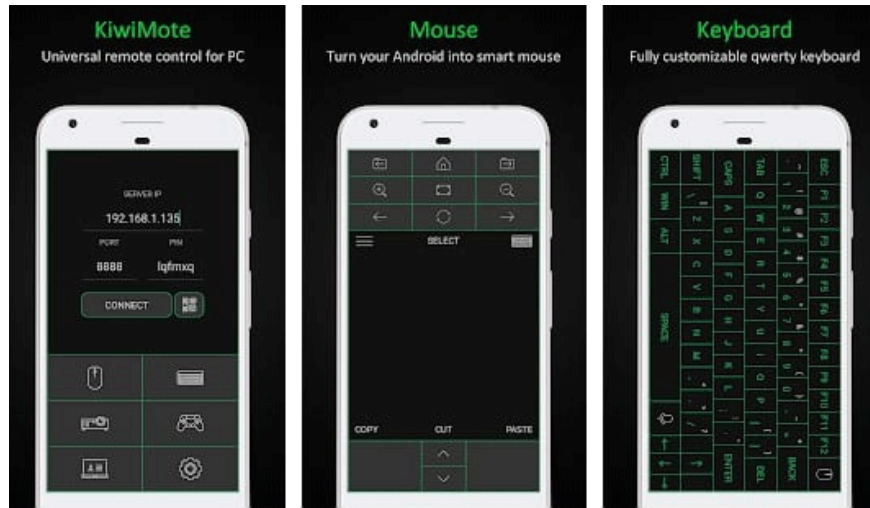

1. Download PC Remote for Android

PC Remote is an Android application used to control PC. First, users need to install PC Remote Receiver on the computer and mobile version on Android. The highlight of PC Remote is that it provides features such as keyboard, mouse control, PowerPoint controls, etc. In addition, PC Remote also provides a Data Cable feature that allows users to access computer files. on the phone via FTP server.

5. KiwiMote

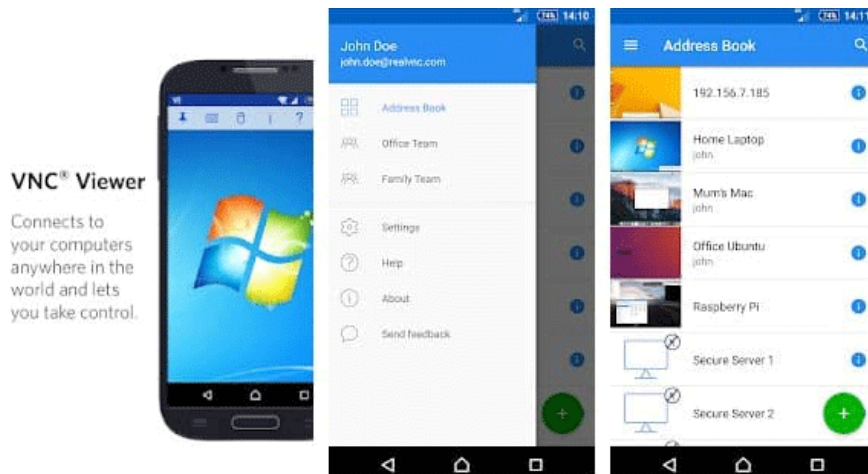

1. Download KiwiMote for Android

KiwiMote allows users to control computers from Android via Wifi. However, your computer needs to have Java installed to run KiwiMote. KiwiMote is also available on Windows, Mac and Linux computers.

6. VNC Viewer

1. Download VNC Viewer for Android

VNC Viewer allows users to access the computer screen via Android. In addition, the application offers several other features such as backup, synchronization, Bluetooth keyboard, etc.

7. Splashtop Personal

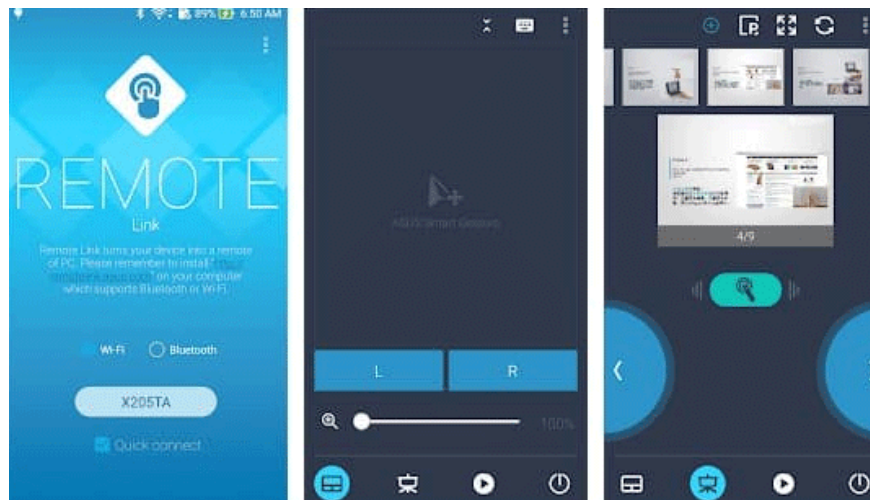

1. Download Splashtop Personal for Android

If you're looking for the easiest, fast and secure remote desktop application, Splashtop Personal is probably the best choice for you. Splashtop Personal allows users to access the computer using an Android device. It provides high resolution, stream video and real-time audio from your computer's webcam.

8. Remote Link

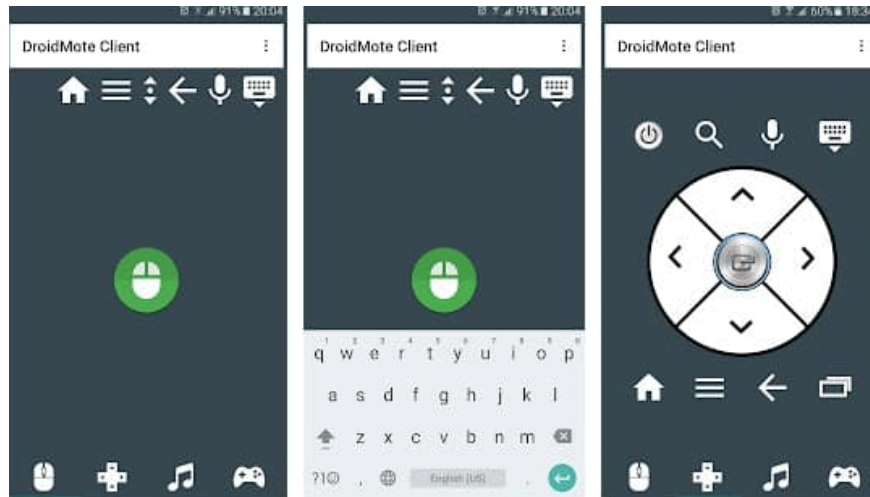

1. Download Remote Link for Android

ASUS Remote Link is another best Android application that turns your device into a remote control Wifi or Bluetooth for PC. Remote Link provides almost everything you expect from a remote control application. It has features such as remote control of the touchpad, remote control of the keyboard, control of the media, etc. So Remote Link is another best Android application to control the PC.

9. DroidMote

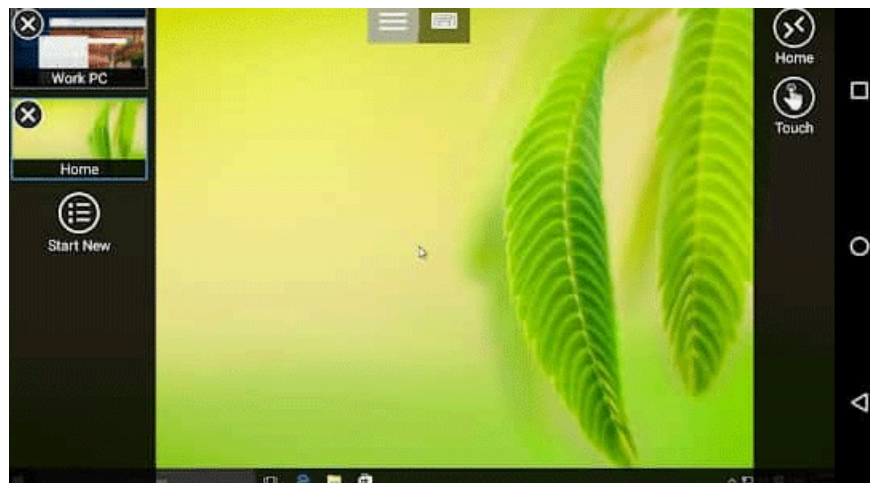

1. Download DroidMote for Android

With DroidMote, users can comfortably control Android, Linux, Windows or Chrome OS devices. To start a remote session with DroidMote, you only need to install the client server client on another device. This application is not very popular, but this is definitely one of the best Android apps you can use to control your computer.

10. Microsoft Remote Desktop

1. Download Microsoft Remote Desktop for Android

Microsoft Remote Desktop is one of the best and top rated remote desktop applications on Google Play Store, used to connect to a PC or remote virtual application. With Microsoft Remote Desktop, you can access your PC running Windows Professional, Enterprise and Windows Server. It also supports high quality video and audio streaming. Therefore, Microsoft Remote Desktop is the best Android application to control computers.

The above are the 10 best Android apps that you can use to control your PC via smartphone. Hope the article is useful to you.

You finished reading the article "10 applications to help 'cricket' control remote computers" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

