

10 best ad-free music apps for Android

The music player comes pre-installed on every Android phone. However, not all of those apps have all the features you need, which is where third-party apps come into play.

You will find a lot of great music player apps on the Play Store. However, a lot of them will detract from your experience by advertising.

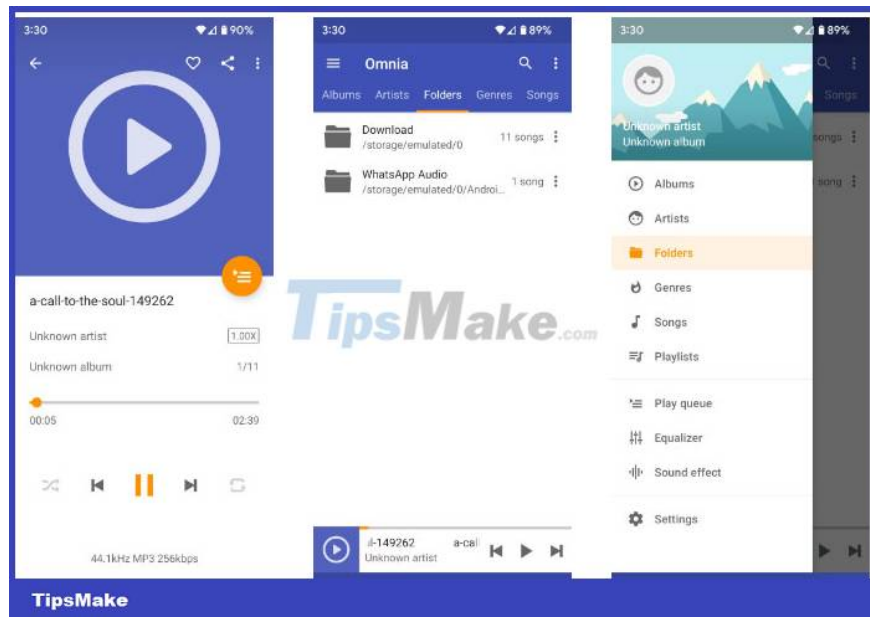

The good news is that there are a number of music players that offer an ad-free experience while still offering some quality features. So here are some of the best ad-free music player apps for Android.

1. Musicolet Music Player

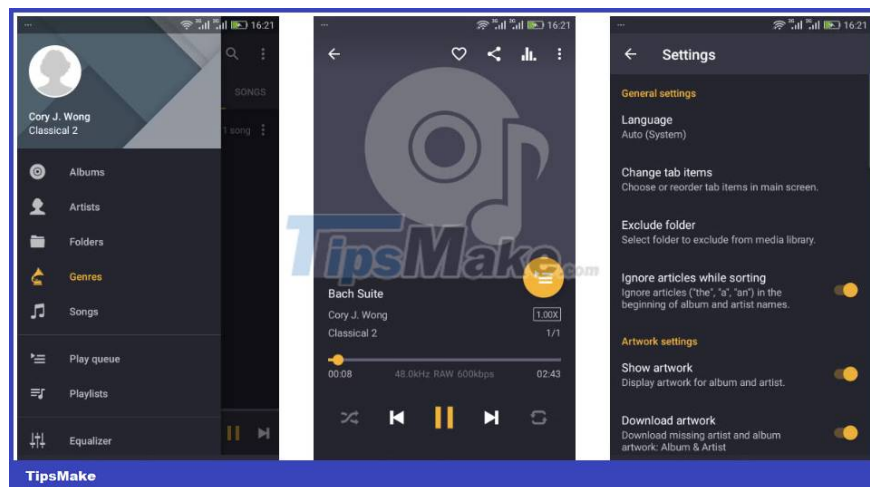

Musicolet is an ad-free music player with a minimalist user interface design. Musicolet does not require Internet access because it is completely offline. An application that plays music that you have downloaded and saved on your phone. For ease of use, you can select multiple music files by tag or name and add them to your custom collection.

2. Omnia Music Player

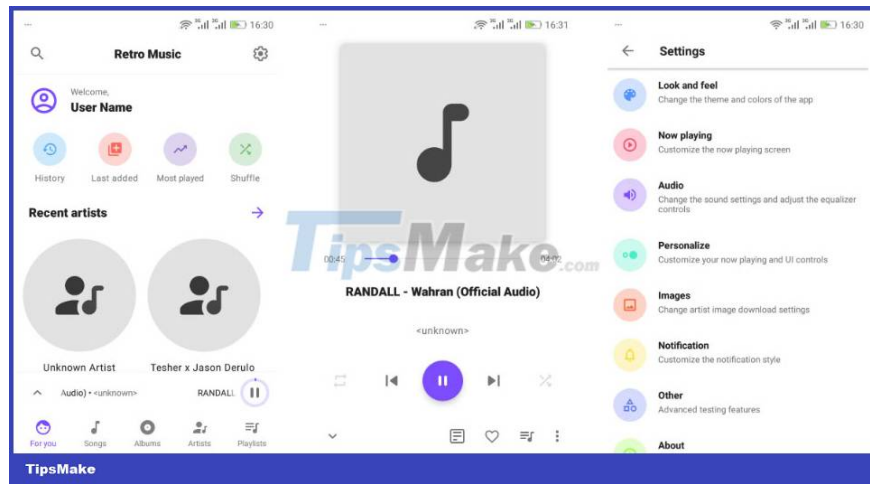

Omnia is a lightweight yet powerful application with a beautiful interface based on Material Design. It is also an offline application and supports all major audio formats with high resolution audio output. The app also provides a built-in 10-band equalizer. Its main highlight, however, is the effects section that takes audio customization to the next level.

3. Pulsar Music Player

Pulsar, a brother of Omnia, is an ad-free, feature-rich music app that lets you edit tags for music files, organize songs into playlists, and browse music from folders above. device. It also has an eye-catching music visualizer that moves with the beat. Pulsar is completely free. And it will surely meet your requirements by supporting almost all audio file formats.

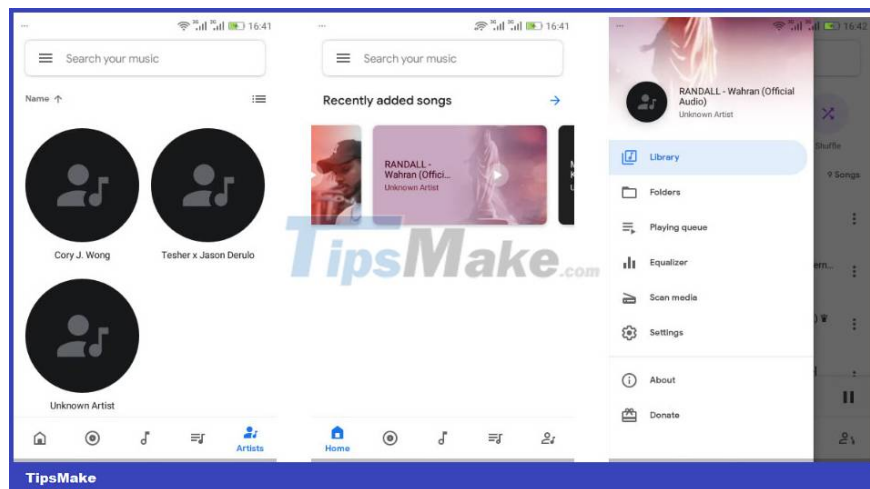

4. Retro Music Player

Retro offers a reliable feature set. In addition to music playback features, it also has 3 application themes for a unique personalized interface and more than 10 themes for the actual music player or Now Playing screen .

Retro is a free app with some advanced paid features available for extra functionality. With Retro Music Pro, you can have a black theme, many more Now Playing themes and a spinning effect on the Now Playing screen, and much more.

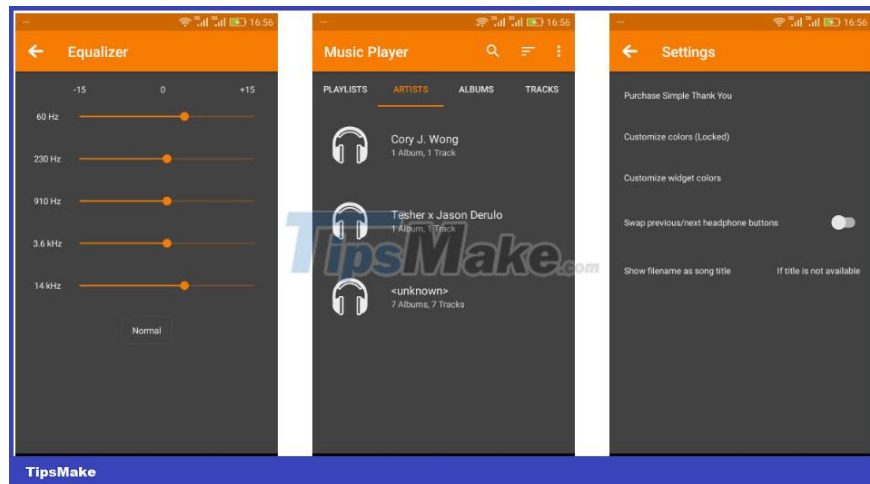

5. Oto Music

Oto, like Musicolet, is an ad-free offline music player that uses Material Design and is packed with features.

Oto Music has a light and dark theme, and supports Chromecast and Android Auto. You can listen to music with continuous playback and create playlists with many sorting options. With its tag editor, you can make detailed edits to any music file in the library.

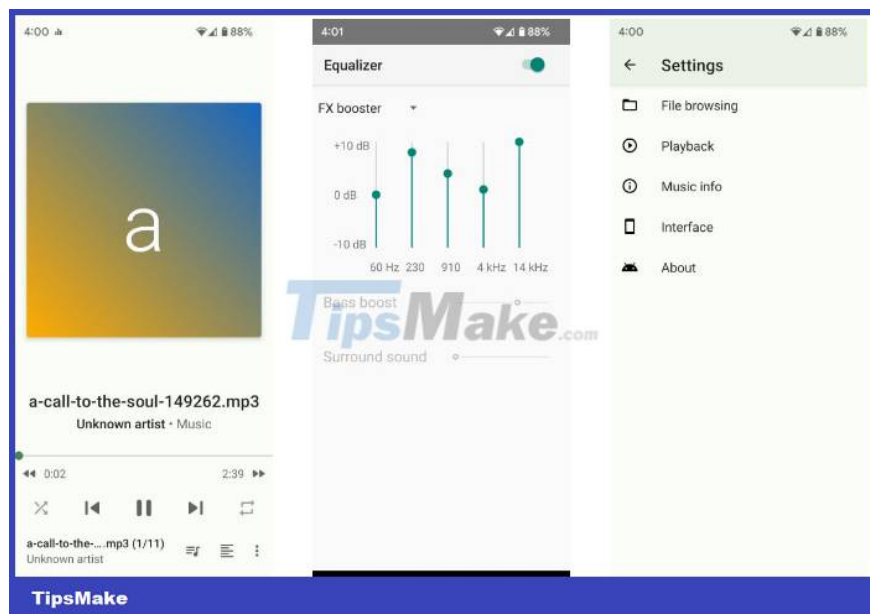

6. Simple Music Player

Simple, as the name suggests, is a minimalistic yet feature-rich application to manage and organize music files in playlists according to your preferences.

Simple has a unique battery saver feature to reduce power usage. The app also allows you to create playlists from the device folder, has a sleep timer and provides a 5-band equalizer. Since Simple is open source, it's free, with only some theme related features locked after a paid requirement. The application does not require Internet access, so it is safe and completely offline.

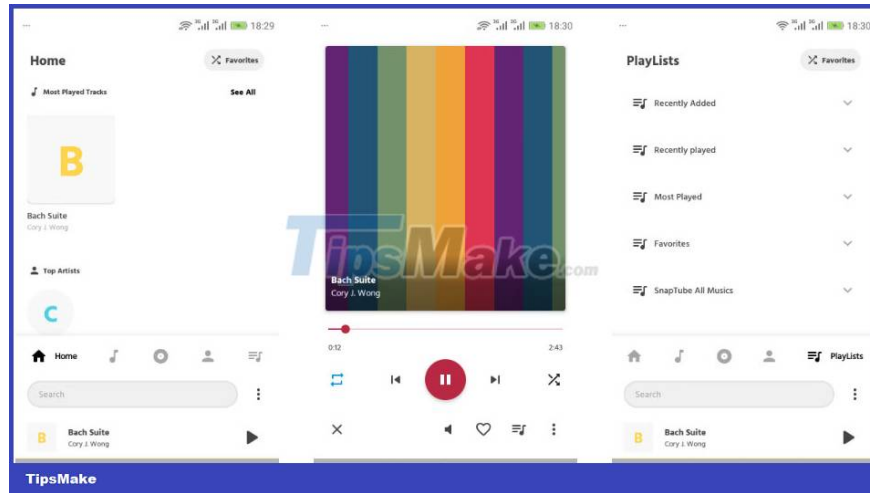

7. Foldplay

Another great option on this list of ad-free music players is Foldplay. This is an extremely lightweight application with a download size of about 2MB. But that doesn't mean it lacks features.

Foldplay treats your music files a little differently. It does not scan the entire phone memory to include extraneous audio files in your playlist. Instead, you can store your music in a specific folder and only open that folder in the app to keep the playlists tidy.

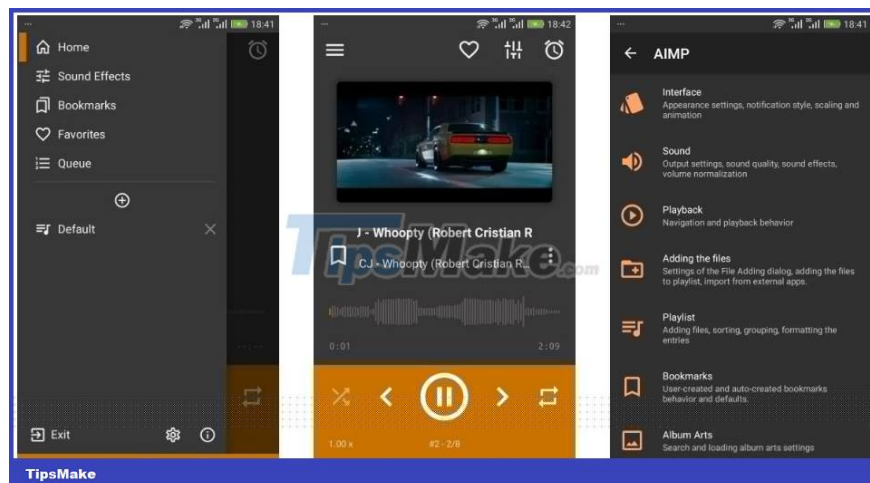

8. Eon Music Player

Eon is highly customizable, so you can personalize its homepage by choosing the sections you want to appear in it.

This app has a built-in equalizer and can download album art. In addition, you can choose to prevent the screen from going to sleep while playing music and can use any of the 4 free themes for personalization.

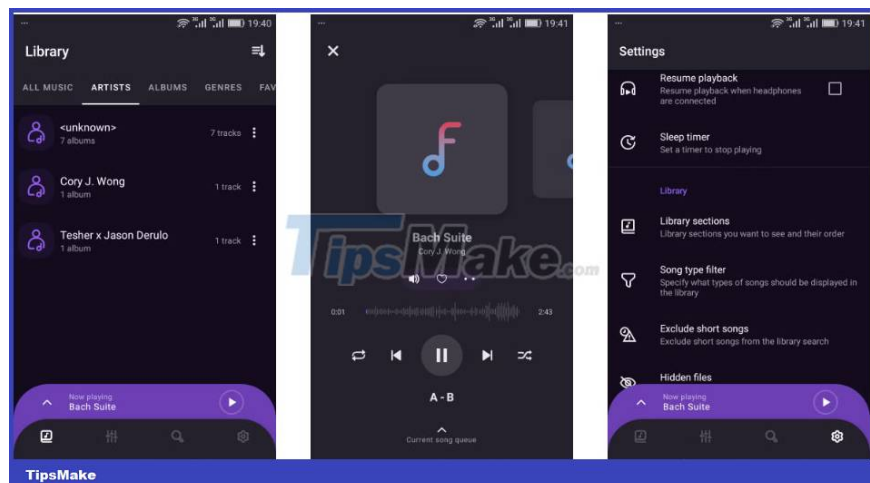

9. AIMP

AIMP is a lightweight, easy-to-use music player that supports offline playback along with other reliable features. In fact, it is one of the best offline music players for Android. The app provides various features like easy navigation, sync, multiple selection, sort and gestures.

Like most of the apps on this list, AIMP is ad-free and completely free. Please note that MIUI devices may cause some compatibility issues with the functionality of this app.

10. Frolomuse

Frolomuse is the ultimate ad-free music player on today's list. It offers a wide range of themes, has a powerful equalizer, uses drag and drop support to manage your queue. You can exclude downloaded ringtones and other short sound files from your library to keep them clean.

Frolomuse also offers fade-out, sleep timer, and lets you filter songs by type. Most of the app's features are free, and you can enhance your experience with some in-app purchases.

You finished reading the article "10 best ad-free music apps for Android" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.