

10 best apps to replace Zenly

The sad news is that Zenly is about to die. The above statement has surprised many users and wants to quickly search for applications similar to Zenly.

The world is developing both economically and technologically with crime and unsafe factors. To prevent these incidents and keep your loved ones safe, with the help of some cool apps like Zenly you can at least keep an eye on your loved ones and make sure that no matter what. Wherever they are, they are safe.

The sad news is that Zenly is about to die. The above statement has surprised many users and wants to quickly search for applications similar to Zenly. In today's article, TipsMake.com.com will introduce a list of 10 good Zenly alternatives that you can use today.

whoo - a location sharing app whoo - a location sharing app is a popular location sharing application in recent times. The application has a very nice interface and is easy to use. You can use whoo to track your loved one's location, chat, and even replace the map app.

BFF

BFF is an app that helps you know where your friends are through a shared real-time location. Also you can use BFF to find your phone by checking last or current location!

iSharing

As the highest rated location sharing app, iSharing by iSharingSoft provides real time phone tracking service. Family members and close friends can privately share their location information and stay in touch with each other, whenever they want and wherever they are.

Now - Find Friends and Family

Now - Find Friends And Family is a social networking app that allows real-time location sharing! You can invite your friends to use it to keep in touch with each other anytime, anywhere. With this app, you can find out where your friends are currently hanging out, ask them where they are going, and send them cool stickers that will make their day more fun.

The outstanding advantages of this application are:

1. Free download
2. Free Streaming
3. No registration required
4. Easy and secure connection
5. High performance
6. Very easy to use interface
7. No ads

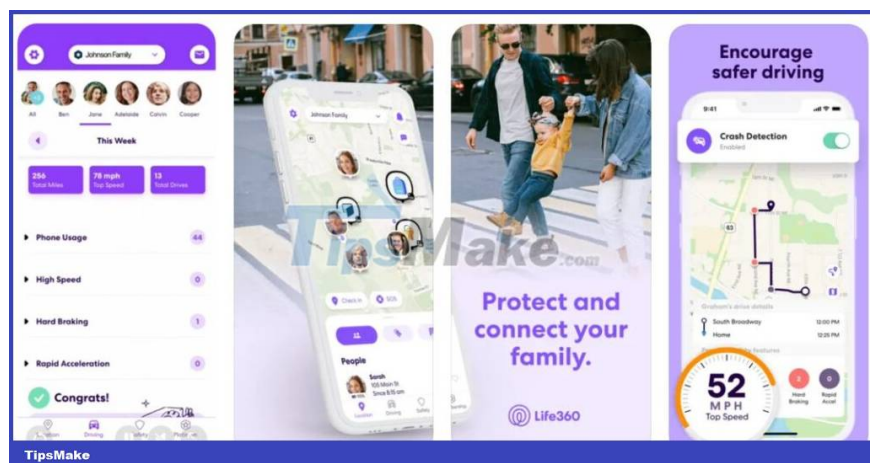

Now - Find Friends And Family is completely free. You will not have to pay a dime to download the app. The app also won't cause any problems for first time users. Everyone can use this app because it is designed in a very easy to use way. Those who are concerned about security can also feel secure when downloading and using Now - Find Friends And Family.

Life360

Life360 is a social networking app for families through which you can experience advanced digital, location and safe driving features along with location sharing for the whole family.

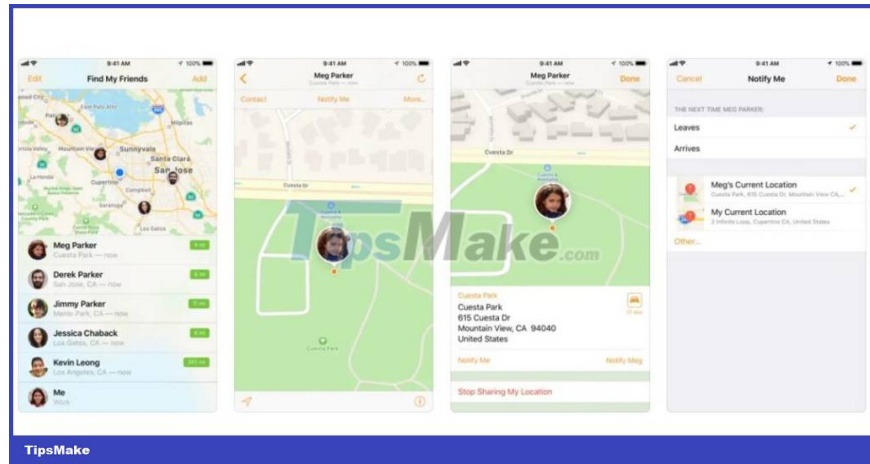

Simply put, it's a locator that will simplify your life by making it easy for you to stay connected with the people that matter most without disturbing them with calls and texts. ask where they are.

Life360 is one of those apps that is very similar to Zenly, providing you with a variety of popular features like location sharing, as well as advanced options like notifying you of any family member's location. when they are late or if someone is in a car accident.

Find My Friends

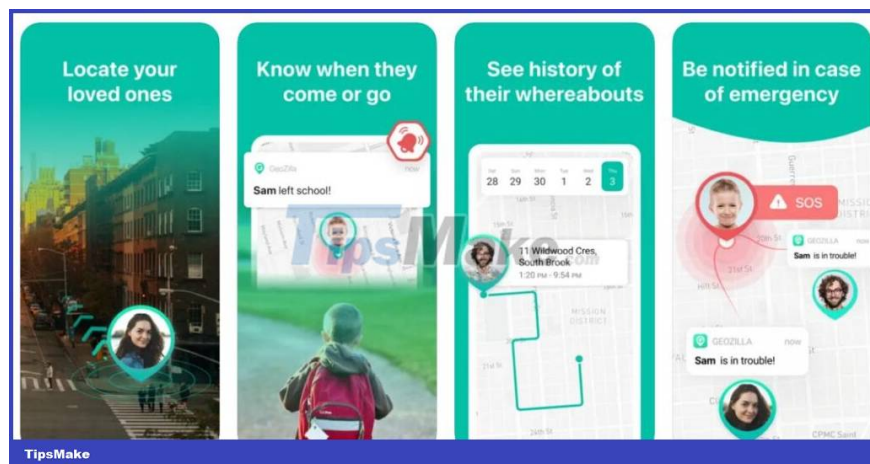

Find My Friends is another locator app that lets you locate family and friends using your iPhone, iPad, and iPod touch. After installing this app, you can easily share your location with others and track the location that others have shared with you. And the best part is if you don't want to be tracked, you can easily hide your location with one tap.

Find My Friends offers location-based alerts that will help you get notified whenever a friend or family member visits or leaves a certain place.

GeoZilla

GeoZilla is a popular and trusted locator app to find your family members wherever you are. To do so, you must first invite your family members to join the app, and once they sign up, you can start sharing your live location and know where everyone is.

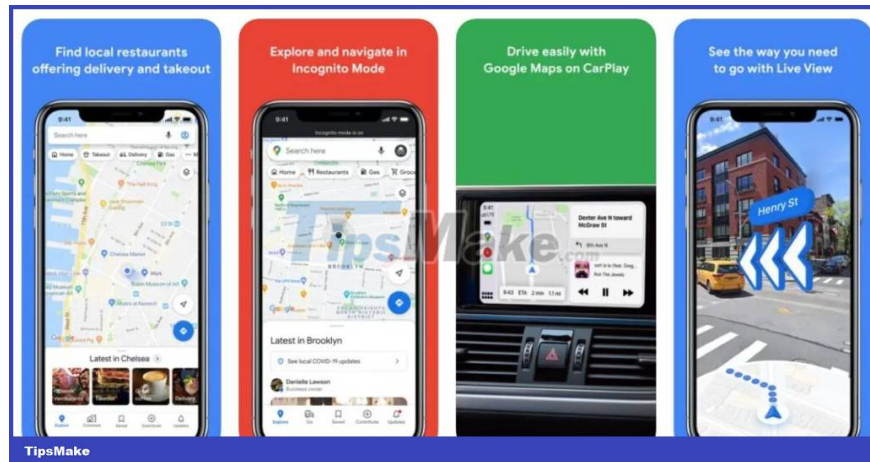

GeoZilla is one of the apps like Zenly because when you are on Android it can be used to track other devices like smartwatches.

In addition, the app uses a safety reporting system that will notify you whenever a family member is using a mobile phone while driving or speeding a car or bicycle. In addition, if a problem is detected, all contacts in the emergency contact list will be notified immediately.

Google Maps

Google Maps is one of the leading locator and locator apps to help you navigate around the world quickly and easily. This app covers more than 220 countries, territories with millions of businesses and locations with precise location details.

Unlike other apps like Zenly listed in this article, it doesn't help you create groups, chat, and provide private maps. However, it can still be used to share your current location via your device's GPS through a variety of apps, including WhatsApp, Messagers, etc.

With Google Maps, you can keep your family updated on what's on the map and your current location. And you can take advantage of advanced app features like voice guidance without having to constantly look at your phone to check directions and get full details about your destination.

Glympse

Glympse is a useful, free and simple app to share your location using your device's GPS tracking with anyone, including friends, family members, and colleagues. Here you can let your family members or friends know you're on your way, see if anyone's late, and also create an online family group.

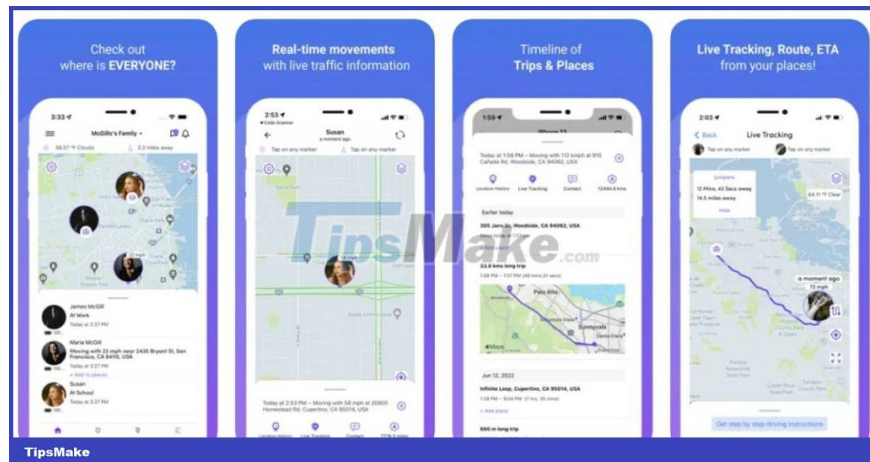

Furthermore, you can make a list of things including informing your family about your safety while cycling, running or driving, easily finding friends at a concert or festival, give your customers a polite note to ETA when stuck in traffic and arrange for an evening out with friends, etc.

Family360

Family360 is a locator that reports your family's exact location using GPS coordinates with GPS location data.

With the help of this application you can continuously determine the location of the mobile phone registered with the application. However, this cannot be used to follow anyone because the other person needs to accept your invitation.

Family360 can also help when you lose your phone or your phone is stolen. It will track the current location of the mobile phone with the help of a GPS tracker. Furthermore, you can easily find your family on the map, share your location with others and also check the updated vehicle traffic on the map to preview delays. Delays may occur during the trip.

You finished reading the article "10 best apps to replace Zenly" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.