

10 classic historical photos strangle human hearts

The series of historical photos that record the following traumatic events shook anyone's heart. It is not simply about keeping historical moments but also sending messages about humanity, peace and friendship in life.

The series of historical photos that record the following traumatic events shook anyone's heart. It is not simply about keeping historical moments but also sending messages about humanity, peace and friendship in life.

Let's review the classic historical photos of the world that move millions of hearts.

This historical picture was taken during the massacre of indigenous peoples and migrants who lost Americans the most important resource, the bison. The number of Bison bovine cows has been reduced from 60 million to less than 1,000 in the 1800s. In the picture, the cow bone of Bison forest has been turned into a large pile to be crushed to mix into fertilizer in America.

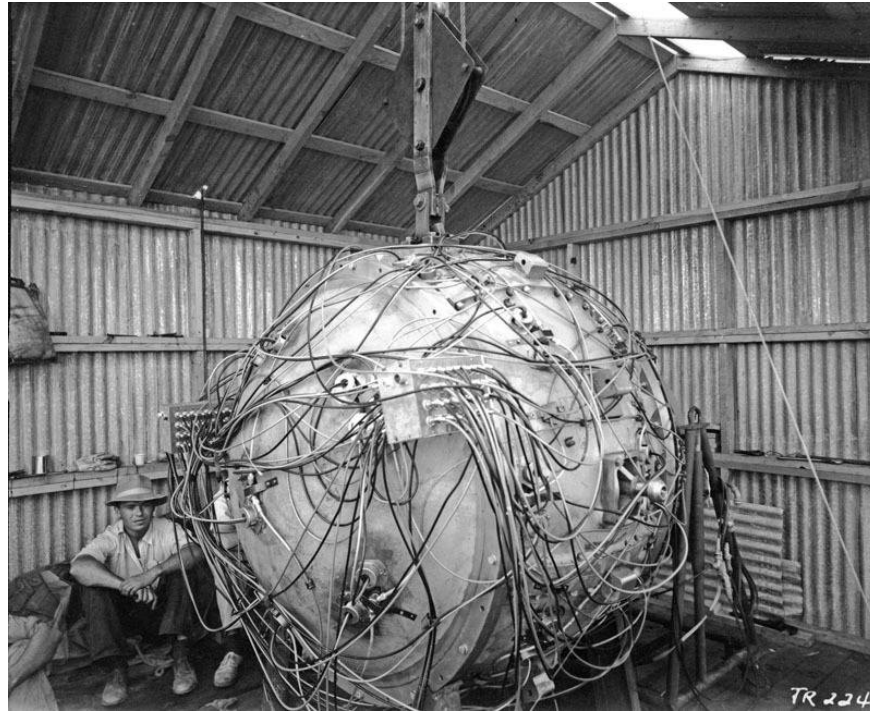

The picture shows the owner of the hotel pouring acid into the pool when colored people are swimming in it. The photo was taken in 1964, haunting many people about racism.

Mary Ann Vecchio burst into tears at Jeffrey Miller 's body - one of four young students shot dead by police during the 1970 protest of Kent State University student in Ohio, USA.

The world's last public death row prison action attracted a lot of people to watch.

This is the first atomic bomb in the world. It has claimed the lives of tens of thousands of people when dropped into Hiroshima, Japan.

The face of a smallpox patient in New York, the United States made many people suffer.

Due to her inability to support four children and a fifth pregnancy, the mother had to sell her children. The photo was taken in Chicago, USA in 1948.

Soviet soldiers stood next to the ashes of the bones after cremating the prisoners killed by the Nazis.

Shame, regret and fear of Nazi prisoners when they were shown the images of them slaughtering, torturing brutal prisoners in concentration camps.

The photo was strongly moved to the millions of photographers Mike Wells, he took the arm of the starving boy on the hand of a Ugandan missionary in 1980. At that time, in Uganda for every 5 people there is another starving man.

1. Who is the richest emperor in human history?
2. Review the 10 most devastating disasters in human history

You finished reading the article "10 classic historical photos strangle human hearts" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.