Don't be mistaken for men, everything is the same. Every age in their life is a completely different, even contradictory, model. Boys will always be boys, as people often say. And that's perfectly fine. However, when a son becomes a true man, he has more to worry about than trying to find a certain girl to " pair with ." The following article will reveal the difference between " boys " and " men " . Please read it carefully!

1. The son laments - Men cry

New boys are not mature enough to express their feelings properly. Instead of presenting the problems that are obvious, boys often complain about everything. In contrast, men do not hesitate to say what they are thinking and if necessary, they will cry. Boys often assume " true men won't cry ". But in fact, the words of men will be linked to their emotions and know how to talk about what they encounter in life.

2. The son is in a hurry - Men are slow

The son thinks that life is a race and whoever comes first will win. Boys often rush to the destination without enjoying anything that appears on the way to the destination. However, real men are aware that each of us can live only one life, which is quite short so every minute that passes in life must contemplate many things. They are not in a hurry to " here ", where " this " may be here or elsewhere. They walk on the path of life slowly, at a moderate pace, enough to feel everything around them.

3. Retaliation boys - Men forgive

When a boy is offended or hurt by someone, the first reaction will be to fight back. He will do whatever he can to take revenge on those who dare to touch him, even if it is wrong or related to reputation. But men are different. Their first reaction was to reconcile, avoiding further controversy and damage to both. If a man disagrees with the woman they love, they will deal with a warm embrace rather than using force.

4. Son of selfishness - Men trust

The boys always try to hold on to what they " own ". They know what they are and don't want anyone to touch it. This leads to some misleading, unhealthy behaviors in emotional relationships. Men know what belongs to them, but they believe that it will not betray them. A true man can trust his woman and feels no need to follow her every step.

5. Pretend boys - Men don't

The boys often act as a model in front of friends and others, including his girlfriend. They can play a prince of a prince in a moment and then startle to realize that he is not suitable, or rather fake. Men are the exact opposite. They show people what they really are, regardless of circumstances or circumstances. They do not pretend to be others, because it is not themselves, even if it makes many people dislike them.

6. Men depend on men - Men live freely

Boys often have a hard time, uncomfortable to do what they like. They cannot decide everything without intervention from their parents. Although they will deny this, they actually do not have their own freedom. Men are different, they have the ability to "remove" the safety belt and make their own decisions for their lives. They see the importance of advice from their parents, but they will do what they feel best.

7. Boys calculate - Men are generous

Boys are often calculating, greedy and very rarely generous when it comes to money / property. They think this world owes them something and money will help them get everything in life. But for men it is different, they think that money is nothing more than something needed in life. They did not feel bothered to take care of their woman like a queen because she was more valuable than any money. They always feel comfortable with themselves and their assets because they are aware of the important things in their lives.

8. Boys disparaging - Men praise

Boys often pay attention to bad sides rather than good ones. Instead of complimenting his girlfriend's new outfit, he will focus on commenting on his messy hair and ugly shoes. Men always know the value of women and do everything they can to see it. A real man will make his woman feel happy and appreciate her value, not "disparaging" about imperfect things.

9. Sorrowful son - Men forgive

This is probably the most important difference between a son and a man. Boys often find it difficult to let go of the past. They do not want to look forward and cannot forget past things. Men know how to renew relationships and forgive others more importantly to keep grudges in their hearts. Therefore, they quickly apologized and even easily passed.

10. Boys give up - Men commit

Boys don't want to commit themselves to anything. They refused to do anything officially, because they wanted to benefit but did not want to " sign a contract ". However, when a man determines what he wants, they will let everyone know. Men maintain relationships seriously and they will pursue their women no matter what others say. They refused to give up because they knew what they wanted and how important it was to them.
