

10 reasons why smart women find it hard to find love

To find a true love is not easy for anyone, if you are a smart woman, the path becomes even more arduous than ever. But why is that?

To find a true love is not easy for anyone, if you are a smart woman, the path becomes even more arduous than ever. Why? Current society often has bad thoughts about single women, like something that doesn't happen to them. That thought was completely wrong. Here are 10 reasons why smart women find it hard to find love.

1. They are not afraid to be themselves

Smart women know very well what they want and will not sacrifice themselves for anything unworthy. They know it's important to live for yourself. They also realized that they should not trust and sacrifice too many personal interests because one does not deserve this, which can cause problems for a long time. They are not married only because of fear of loneliness or detractors of others - those who do not understand that: "Women can still live independently and happily".

2. They know what they want

Regardless of women, there is a standard "list" of the type of people they are looking for. For smart women, their standard list will be longer or more specific than others - about an important person. They know themselves well and know exactly which type of man suits them. Therefore, the journey to find their love is somewhat strict and becomes more arduous.

3. They can take care of their own lives

From time immemorial, his father had the idea that women depend on their families and when married, they rely on their husband's house. But in modern life today, even women who do not need help can still take care of their lives , sometimes people even realize that they prefer to live alone. Therefore, independent women are always afraid that they have to share their space with someone.

4. They have many priorities other than love

Not all women put love or the search for the other half first. In modern society, there are many things that they want to pursue and spend more time than dating, such as: career, friends, family, after-hours ( work ) sessions or other Other pleasures.

5. They are realistic with relationships

For smart women, an end-to-end relationship will be a " bloody " experience when they begin another relationship in the future. They have a hard time " suffering miserably " and do not want to spend more time because for them time is a " valuable asset ". They are waiting for a future relationship and a mate to suit themselves in marriage, children, finance, .

6. They understand that attraction is only part of the relationship

In love, physical attraction or courtship is indispensable, but the smart woman understands that it is just a fleeting feeling and can change quickly when they see hidden things. inside. They are not susceptible to fooling and becoming more alert than ever to find out about their man as well as that relationship.

7. They are not afraid to offend

In her relationship, the smart woman does not hesitate to say their thoughts or wishes. This may be a barrier for men who want to reach them. Maybe because these men don't know how to react to that frankness or they think that they can't meet the wishes of a smart woman. This can be annoying for their lover or friend.

8. They understand "change"

Smart women understand that change is always an inevitable problem in relationships. They were not surprised when they or their lover went with someone else on the road. People who love themselves or themselves cannot guarantee that this relationship will last for a long time.

9. They have a deep understanding of dating in the present era and not necessarily anything that likes, compliments or agrees.

Dating is no longer a vital thing for women today. As mentioned above, smart women have the ability to live independently so they don't need to " live or die " to find or date someone to rely on. For them, dating is merely looking for a companion to share the interests and joys of life and the future with them.

10. They do not completely trust someone

Perhaps this is the most important reason for the reasons that smart women have difficulty finding true love. Deciding to give someone a trust is not easy for smart women, we should not take this lightly. Smart women carefully consider the good side and the bad side to decide whether to take risks to them or not.

You finished reading the article "10 reasons why smart women find it hard to find love" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

