

10 smartphones worth looking forward to the second half of 2019

Below is a list of smartphones that will be released by manufacturers by the end of 2019 promising to resonate loudly.

Below is a list of smartphones that will be released by manufacturers by the end of 2019 promising to resonate loudly and meet the expectations of technology lovers.

Samsung Galaxy Note 10

According to leaked information, Galaxy Note 10 will be equipped with ultra-fast clean technology and batteries with capacity up to 4,500 mAh. In addition, the S Pen screen, hardware and features on this product will also be upgraded to provide the best user experience.

1. This is all worth looking forward to on the Galaxy Note 10
2. Invite to admire Concept Galaxy Note 10 with perforated screen, 4 beautiful cameras

Apple iPhone 2019 series

One of the most anticipated smartphone in this year is Apple's iPhone 2019. As expected, Apple will still launch three new iPhone models with two high-end models rumored to have three rear cameras with an expected price of over $ 1,000 and a good price model with dual cameras.

1. The 2019 iPhone uses new type antennas, improving cellular signal reception in the home
2. Can iPhone 2019 work normally under water?
3. iPhone XI (2019) will have a system of 3 square cameras, convex on the back and using USB-C?

Xiaomi Pocophone F2

Pocophone's first generation with high-end processor, high-capacity battery and impressive performance made a huge sound when it was released in 2018. The second generation, the Pocophone F2 is expected to still have a good price. The same high-end configuration as the old version, may be released in August.

Google Pixel 4 and Pixel 4 XL

Google Pixel 4 and Pixel 4 XL are expected to be released in October and will fall into the list of the best smartphones 2019. According to leaked information, on the screen of the duo will have a pretty big part, This may be the part deducted from the product.

Moto Z4

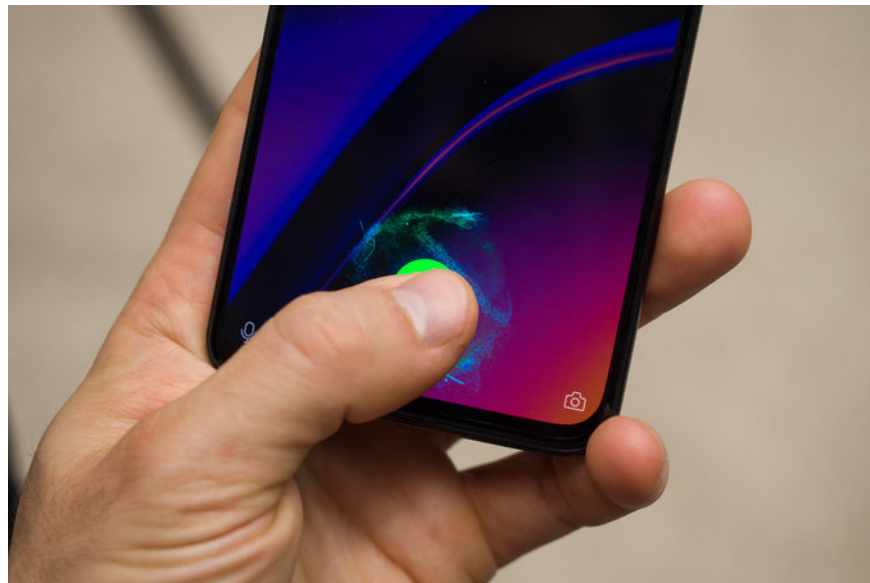

With this new model, Motorola is expected to focus on perfecting the camera, performance and battery life.

Huawei Mate 30 Pro and Mate 30

Huawei's new high-end smartphones are still a mystery but if launched this year the new Mate series will be equipped with the world's best camera system.

One Plus 7T

One Plus will continue to launch two new models of the OnePlus 7 series, 7T and 7T Pro. These two phones are said to have a terrible configuration but the price may be only half that of high-end models from Samsung or Huawei.

Razer Phone 3

Although Razer has announced to give up its smartphone development department, it may still launch the Razer Phone 3 later this year. The company's smartphone is expected to be more complete in terms of design, performance and camera.

LG V50 ThinQ

This is a 5G smartphone introduced by LG at MWC2019 exhibition earlier this year and may be launched in October. The LG V series will be equipped with many modern technologies and excellent hardware.

1. LG V50 ThinQ: Unique 5G Smartphone capable of attaching a second sub-screen

Xiaomi Mi Mix 4

Mi Mix 4 is expected to have thinner edges and be upgraded in design, software and camera.

You finished reading the article "10 smartphones worth looking forward to the second half of 2019" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.