

10 things that my father taught my daughter would be better than my mother

There are many lessons Dad should teach girls from an early age. It is an opportunity for girls to learn valuable lessons.

Having a daughter is a wonderful thing for any father, because people often say, 'the daughter is the father's love in the past', so it is easy to understand why the daughter and the father are often extremely close.

The father not only brings a sense of security to the young daughter but also teaches many things to her, not by sitting down and talking, but by her usual behavior. Teach your little girl 10 things to help bond father and son love and help you understand the true values of life.

1. 1000 good names to choose from for your young daughter
2. 11 conundrums of children and this is the answer that every parent needs at times!

1. Courage and strength

One of the most important lessons my father should teach is that it is strong to cope with difficulties and events in life when faced. And my father is a 'powerful figure' in the family who can convey to his daughters who need to know these things, it will inspire and motivate her to grow stronger than her whole face. god and physical.

2. Confidence

Self-confidence is essential for every girl. A recent study revealed that 62% of girls feel unsafe, and 57% have heard mothers criticize their looks. It shows that fathers will be easier to tell girls that she is not only beautiful, but also intelligent and most importantly good. Since then, it helps girls increase their confidence. No girl wants her whole life to hate the person she sees in the mirror, or to doubt all her actions. As a father, you play an important role in making sure that doesn't happen.

3. Family is priceless

Fathers should be role models, so that the little girl looks in to appreciate her mate and family. The family always occupies an extremely important position in the heart of every person, no matter which way we go, we always look forward to the family where there are loved ones willing to protect you from the storm life

4. Self-reliance

Another great life lesson the fathers can teach girls the ability to be independent from big problems like how she never has to depend on a man to have a full life. That can be simple skills like how to save money, repair tires, and pay bills yourself. You will help your child absorb the priceless lesson that he will apply to the rest of his life.

5. Self-discipline

Self-discipline is a commendable trait that everyone should have. Although fathers always want to show off to girls, know "abstinence" so that you can help your child develop this virtue. You don't need to be 'perfect' by agreeing to all of your daughter's requests, sometimes saying no to children to help your child develop his self-discipline.

6. There is a strong stance

Unlike boys, girls are weak and easily falter with difficulties in confrontation, so you should teach your daughter how to express her position, which is not wrong. . If your child chooses to protect his or her point of view, let him know that he should not be afraid to protect himself or those he loves.

7. Say what I think

See also: Learn how Jews teach children to communicate from a young age

Today most young girls find it difficult to express their thoughts. Even when going to school, children are afraid to ask questions according to their thoughts, because they are afraid of people evaluating them. So it is extremely necessary to teach your children how to speak your mind as a child. You should also remind your daughters not to make 'stupid questions' that make listeners feel ridiculous and do not want to answer, so give some smart and valuable questions about the problem. talk about. Help your children get out of shyness, and speak out your thoughts so that you can become a smart girl.

8. Help me realize the difference

Each of us has its own unique cold. And fathers are the ones who can show girls how special they are in different ways, the simplest and easiest ways for their fathers to say it is to love them.

9. Children deserve the best

If your baby is like many other children often feel shy and unconfident, think that they are not worthy of the best. And to help your child get rid of those negative thoughts, fathers should teach them to understand, they always deserve to be respected, loved and have the best in life.

10. True love

Showing affection to children is also a way to teach children to recognize life and choose appropriate behavior. Always encourage your child to do his best but at the same time let him know that you still love him anyway. Always take time and attention to your children, be at important events with your child, go home for dinner and don't be afraid to show love with kind, affectionate gestures. From these simple things, your daughter will also learn how to express love and receive love unconditionally.

"There is no beginning, there is no end. The words that you teach are the things you forever pick up, inculcate and store indefinitely in your heart." There is no joy to match the smile of parents when children are obedient and successful. So you love, cherish the moments with your father, the family, not to realize the true value of your father, your family in life, everything is belated.

You finished reading the article "10 things that my father taught my daughter would be better than my mother" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.