

10 websites are indispensable for those who want to improve intelligence

Every day, spend a certain amount of time visiting these 10 websites, your knowledge, intelligence and ideas will surely be more abundant than seen.

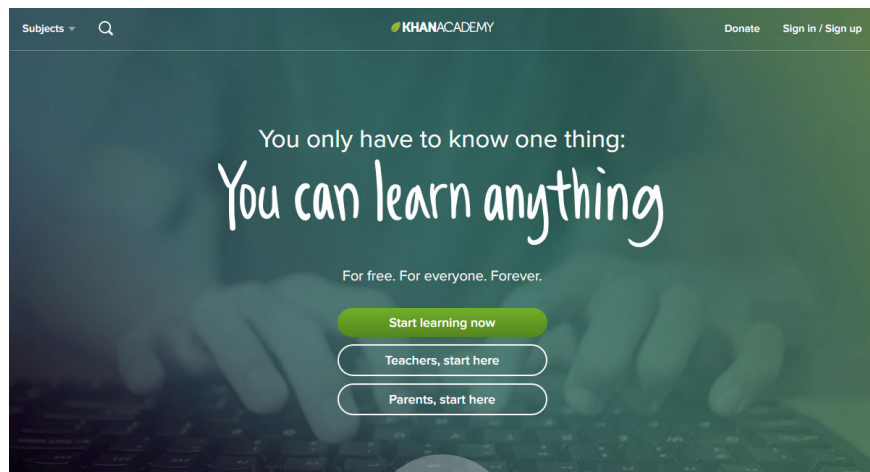

In the age of information technology, it is not uncommon for many people to "kill" time on social networks, watch movies, funny videos or music shows. Not these entertainment channels are not well, however, you can only keep up with the development of the world when there is more knowledge. Because society is increasingly competitive and constantly asking modern citizens to learn every day.

The good point is that the Internet is not only a place to entertain, but it also provides a lot of great resources to help you become smart, create, develop yourself and get closer to your dreams. Of course, you must be willing to dig deep and spend more time on those sites.

1. Just 2 minutes, these 7 websites will help you relax your mind very effectively
2. Top 10 websites for programming need to bookmark immediately!
3. 14 websites provide free stock photos for designers
4. 39 websites provide free photo galleries for art enthusiasts
5. 10 websites to help create the top free job CVs today

Here are 10 typical websites among many good websites on the internet that can help you improve your intelligence every day.

1. Khan Academy (Khan Academy)

Khan Academy offers you useful videos covering many areas. Increasing your understanding of a topic means you have to practice, not simply know about it. Khan Academy wants you to become smarter and that is why they will also monitor your academic results in stages for you to grasp.

2. DataCamp

Data Camp is a very interesting site to learn coding and science about data. The comfort and ability to easily follow the learning process will help you get more and more in-depth about how to write code. However, you will have to pay a monthly or yearly fee to experience all the great features on this website.

3. Quora

Quora is a community that currently has millions of participants worldwide. Not only is it a place to ask questions and find answers easily, but you can also get acquainted and listen to the views shared by other smart people. Even if you have no idea what your problem is, skimming through the members' creative questions is also a great way to stimulate your creativity.

4. TED-Ed

View all TED-Ed lessons!

TED - no need to say much because this is one of the channels of learning and discovering prestigious human knowledge and received very high appreciation from users. TED is the community that brings together the world's most talented professionals, scientists, researchers, speakers and people with everyone to work together to solve problems, explain more about a relationship points, evidence, phenomena as well as listening to interesting views based on science. With slogan "ideas worth spreading", obviously, there is no reason to refuse to bookmark this site.

TED-Ed is the website that gathers all the lessons summarized from the original videos on TED Talks and YouTube . There are currently nearly 185,000 lessons and over 10.1 million questions created.

5. Instructables

Instructables wants to help you learn everything. Through simple instructions and interesting videos, you will better understand what you already know, and discover more new things. If you are an expert, you can also post lessons and share your knowledge with the community.

6. Project Gutenberg

Project Gutenberg is an e-book library (ebook) for you to download. With over 50,000 free ebooks to read online or download, you will definitely improve your knowledge. If you have an idea, boldly create your own eBooks and donate them to everyone in the world.

7. Udemy

If you are a person who is constantly searching for knowledge in many fields, Udemy is a very suitable destination. Currently, this website has more than 30,000 different courses, covering a wide range of topics and is developed by experienced professionals.

8. Digital Photography School

Whether you are a beginner or have mastered the basic skills, Digital Photography School is a good choice to help you get more information and improve your photography skills. This is considered the "gold mine" of the best articles, tutorials, tips and an active forum - where you can learn from other talented photographers.

9. Coursera

On Coursera, you will find more than 800 courses in various fields such as finance, engineering, Internet history and more. Built as an online education platform, Coursera will help you explore deeper the knowledge you need.

10. Lifehack

Right from the name is enough to confirm Lifehack deserves to be on this list. This is a website that provides useful tips and interesting knowledge in life, helps you improve your productivity, hone your skills to advance your career faster and preserve your relationships. . The main topics on Lifehack are communication, relationships, productivity, parenting, work and more.

Don't hesitate, "mark" now!

You finished reading the article "10 websites are indispensable for those who want to improve intelligence" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.