

11 conundrums of children and this is the answer that every parent needs at times!

As children begin to mature, children often ask questions about the world around them. Ignoring a question, lying or laughing at a child's innocence is not the right way to teach children.

1. Teach parents how to raise healthy, smart, scientific children
2. Even though the afternoon, the child was born easily but Vietnamese parents still did
3. 10 methods of teaching children of Jews, every parent should learn

Children begin to understand the world around them, they often set their parents or relatives around extremely humorous questions, but they are also very tough as babies born from, parents love you or you more, your parents are going to be divorced right . these are questions that make it difficult for adults sometimes make adults fall into a difficult situation, don't know how to answer them worth.

1. Where do you come from?

This is a question of the majority of children, causing parents to be confused and shy to know how to answer this curiosity. Many parents often avoid or confuse their children like 'picking up a child in a landfill, or going to ask for a child, a baby is born from an armpit .' these answers really do not satisfy them . So how should you answer this question? The best way you should answer with your child honestly, but do not need to go into details.

You can answer that: "When two people love each other, they hug and kiss. Dad gives his father's cell. That cell grows with the mother's body and a baby starts growing in the womb. Little baby and swimming like a fish in it, then she grew up, and on one day the womb was empty, the baby was born.

Older children may be told the concept of sperm and eggs.

2. Why are boys and girls different in that place?

When children ask this question, most parents are often embarrassed, dismissing that thought in their heads and blaming them that 'they are not big enough to understand that problem'. However, this is a mistake that will make young ideas later to confide in parents about that delicate issue. At this age, it is normal for children to have sex education as well as to learn about their body parts of the opposite sex.

So, to educate your child and answer this question in the most satisfactory way, you can say, "The difference there helps children to be born. Boys have penises and two testicles. Girls have sounds. The boy and the womb - a special bag to hold the baby someday The boys and girls grow up, love each other and want to have a baby. ".

3. When you grow up, will you marry me?

When children ask this question, this is when children begin to notice the opposite sex. Therefore, parents should care and talk with their children more to understand their feelings and feelings.

If your baby asks you that way, you can gently answer 'no', along with an explanation: "Each person has a different role in the family. My sister cannot become a father, father cannot. When I grow up, I will grow old, I still love and take care of my mother, but I will marry another person and love that person emotionally. between father and mother ".

4. Why do parents quarrel?

Sometimes parents have conflicts, children who witness this incident feel scared and apologetic to their parents when they argue. So, when two people argue, don't let them witness. If the child witnesses the situation, you should grace the child psychology and tell the child: "People argue because they disagree with the other person's point of view. Children quarrel, adults sometimes. But parents always do well because their parents love each other, and love them very much.

5. Why is she so fat?

In the middle of a crowded place, suddenly the child saw someone and asked her mother: 'why are you so fat, or why are you so ugly .' surely at this time every mother feels sorry for This innocent question of the child, immediately following the reaction, parents will scold and ask the child to be disordered, this will make the child feel scared, easy to form wrong thoughts.

You should explain: "Everyone has different looks. They may be tall or low, fat or thin. Sometimes people change their appearance because of illness. If you point out the difference, you can make them I shouldn't do that, I can ask my mother later, when I have only my mother and I together, to make sure no one has to be sad because of those words. "

6. Do you love your child or older sibling?

The siblings of the family often have feelings for their parents. You should not take a child as an ideal model for the remaining children to imitate, nor should you say you love someone more because you study better.

"The children are not the same, the feelings of the mother for each of you are also expressed in different ways. But I love the same children, just as you love the father and the mother alike" is the answer words you should use.

7. Will the doctor hurt you?

When taking children to see a doctor, many children feel scared and shy because in their heads, they are always the default, doctors are bad people will make them hurt. In this situation, you should not tease your child or hit the young psychology, which is completely useless.

Now tell me, "The doctor doesn't want to hurt you. The doctor's job is to fight bacteria and disease. It will be a little painful, but if you don't suffer now, then When she gets sick, she gets an injection too, she is scared but she has to deal with it, I will do it too, remember that our rabbit is sick too, we have to take it It's scary, but please explain to the rabbit why he shouldn't be afraid of the doctor? "

8. Will you die? Will she die too?

With this question, you should answer honestly with your child. You should not lie to your child or flatter your child that 'you are an angel, how to die .' this is really not good.

In this situation, you should confess to your child: "People, animals and even flowers will die one day. That's the law of life. We will die, but that day I will die when my mother is very old, then I have grown up, have children, and when my children grow up, I will grow old and die, but the important thing is I live a life meaningful life, discovering many interesting things ".

9. Why do you leave me to work?

This question probably makes every parent feel hurt and hurt, especially when they are sick. In this situation, please explain to me that my mother's job is compulsory, and that I will be back with you at night, when you return you will be happy with each other.

10. Why are parents allowed to do, and children?

When you see the night of work, the child will catch up first and won't go to sleep. Children think that what parents can do, children can do it, there is nothing wrong. This is really not good. Now explain to your child that: 'It must be because of work, not the way to play the computer, and this habit is really not good, so you should not follow the bad habit this one's dad won't be a good person '.

11. What if the monster under the bed eats children?

This is a way for children to often act as their parents before going to sleep. Now do not think this is your joke and chase the children. You should take my problem seriously, listen to me talk about the frightened monster, then find a way to solve that problem for me by giving me something and telling me, 'This is my guardian, it will help you to chase away all monsters if it dares to approach you'. And sit with your child so that your child can go to sleep.

You finished reading the article "11 conundrums of children and this is the answer that every parent needs at times!" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.