Friendship is one of the best aspects of life. That means, sincere friends are definitely much better than other normal friends. It will be difficult to distinguish what is a real friend and a fake friend, but obviously they are really different!

A friend is really someone who can accompany you in anything. You know that they will always be by your side, always so steadfast despite all circumstances. Conversely, fake friends will only bring you troubles. Keep in mind the 11 differences between sincere friends and fake friends below to find out which of your friends are real friends!

1. Support you in every job you are trying

A friend will really be there to encourage and encourage you to do whatever you are trying to do. Whether you are facing a lot of difficulties in your life or changing your career path, a sincere friend will always be with you all the way.

2. Love your silly characters

Those of us sometimes do silly things in our lives and sometimes we do them on a regular basis. A sincere friend will love your true personality. In fact, if they were a real friend, you wouldn't have to do those silly things alone because they would join everything with you.

3. Forgive you anything

Sometimes you handle the situation badly. For fake friends, that would be a very expensive price that you have to pay for a friendship. And a real friend will know that sometimes you get tangled up so you don't behave properly, because everyone sometimes makes mistakes. They will forgive you because they value friendship more than the temporary mistake you have caused.

4. Always on your side

The problem is not that of people who oppose you but the problem is that even if you are making a mistake, a real friend will always be by your side no matter what your problem is. They are always on your side and fighting for you without question for any reason. That's what only real friends do for you.

5. Let you explore your own interests

When we grow up, we will love to discover new interests and sometimes we have different hobbies before! False friends will make you happy and tell you to always sing ' High School Musical ' songs to forget the hobbies you want to pursue. A true friend will let you do all the things you want and encourage you to discover new hidden values ??in you.

6. Know all your bad habits

Obviously, we all have our own bad habits (for example, when we get irritated in the morning after waking up, we are often flirted with when we're drunk, we eat too many rolls on our meals. dark, .). Only true friends know it. No one else understands who you really are like them. In fact, they see your bad habits as a good sign!

7. They always keep in touch with you

Fake friends will only contact you when they need something or talk about some rumors. And true friends will contact you anywhere and anytime, because they are always interested in what is happening in your life. They do not want to know the latest rumors about your relationship but simply want to know what you have eaten during lunch this day.

8. Keep secret for you

If you can trust someone, who doesn't talk about your secret secrets, it's true friends. Fake friends will treat your secrets not as sacred and respectable. A friend really appreciates your trust for them and that will not allow yourself to tell your secrets to anyone.

9. You don't need to "show up" when traveling with them

If you need to wear nice clothes and grooming and make sure you have a nice scent just to hang out with your friends, that's just fake friends. A friend is really ready to meet you when you are in sports pants with long, unshaven hair. The worst thing is that maybe someone will think of it as a joke, but they don't really care about everything that belongs to the outside form. They just want to spend time with you. True friendship is judged by what you show when you hang out with them!

10. They spend time with you

It doesn't matter if they only have free time about an hour between work and craft making, a real friend will be willing to spend that time drinking water with you. The problem is not the time, the problem is that they want to spend time with you, not the time for themselves.

11. Always ready to let you lean on their shoulders and cry

A big difference between sincere friends and fake friends, is how they treat your ups and downs. If you're feeling sad, a fake friend will flap on your shoulder awkwardly and try to find a way to change the subject. And friends will really embrace you in their arms and listen to you crying all night, if you want them to do so. Friends are really friends who are available when you need it, whether you're happy or sad.

If you are trying to find out if your friends are truly sincere friends, hopefully these instructions can help you decipher your friends around you. This is when you need to recognize your true friends to make life more beautiful!
