

3 characters you should choose when playing Mortal Kombat 11

With these characters, you will get used to the skills in MK 11 faster and how to cast character combos will be much faster.

Referring to the fighting game genre, it's impossible not to mention the Mortal Kombat game series. Most recently, the Mortal Kombat 11 part with extremely attractive designed graphics and characters. This section also has new characters for gamers to experience.

And in addition to these new characters, it certainly can't be without old characters that many players are familiar with. Of course, the controls, the blows, the combo of the characters have changed so gamers will have to get back to the beginning compared to the previous game series. The following article will help you choose the most familiar characters in the MK 11

1. How to rename characters in Auto Chess Mobile for free
2. Summary of characters and character skills index in Boom Mobile
3. Ways to write special characters in PUBG Mobile

Mortal Kombat 11: Characters to choose when playing

1. Sub Zero

Based on previous versions, the Sub Zero always has strong attacks and easy replacements. In addition to the basic attacks, combos are also easy to deploy, making it easy for users to become a pro when using Sub Zero in their hands.

Especially when Sub Zero attacks can hold the opponent, it is easy for the player to strike without obstruction. This makes it easier for players to use combos.

Sub-Zero also has an "ice skating" attack that consumes a lot of blood from the opponent if it is unable to fend off. This attack will close the gap with the opponent, quickly approaching and using the attack on the opponent. Those things will help gamers get used to faster in MK 11.

Scorpion

Another character and also the face of Mortal Kombat 11 game series, he is quite famous because his face always appears in the game posters. Scorpion is also a character that many gamers keep an eye on in the game.

This character also has a fairly simple way of controlling and launching, combos are also easily deployed. Although there is no mechanism to freeze opponents like Sub Zero, Scorpion also has a strike that makes the opponent temporarily sleep in place "Get Over Here". This attack will pull the opponent closer to him and temporarily lose consciousness for a while.

That's when you should use your best combo, Scorpion's continuous attack is not too difficult to cast and relatively high damage. But if you don't aim correctly, it's easy to miss. Back in time and wait for the opportunity, your advice is that Scorpion will match the type of defensive counterattack, different from Sub Zero.

Liu Kang

Another face is also considered quite familiar in the Mortal Kombat series. This character is quite familiar to many gamers when using fatality dragon. In MK 11, although Liu Kang does not implement fatality dragon, it also appears in Fatal Blow.

Liu Kang's skill set is both far-fetched and can be used for close combat. The familiar fireball skill will help keep the distance from close-up characters, and you can also brace to increase 2 more fireballs to deal damage. These attacks should be executed while away because the move requires time.

Some of his continuous attacks are only 3 or 4 shots and new players will get used to it very easily. You just need to press the X / A / B button 4 times to create a combo that deals quite a bit of damage. Melee attacks like "cyclo" familiar to many gamers are not too complicated to implement. So Liu Kang is one of the options for new players to step into the arena of MK 11.

Once you get used to the above characters, slowly you will combine the remaining characters' attacks in the MK 11. And defeating the enemy with combo attacks will make you feel interesting. taste in MK 11 fighting matches.

You finished reading the article "3 characters you should choose when playing Mortal Kombat 11" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.