The Qosmio X770 is equipped with a quad-core Core i7 processor, a discrete card with VRAM up to 2GB and especially a Full HD display with 3D images.

In addition to X770, Toshiba will also bring to Vietnam another powerful gaming laptop, the F750. The pair of Toshiba's new laptops followed by the famous Qosmio series with powerful design and "super" configuration aimed at users who are gamers or have high entertainment needs. The Qosmio F750 has a 15-inch screen while the X770 is 17 inches.

Meanwhile, the rest of the X770 model offers a 3-D 3D gaming experience with a 3D display of 17.3 inches in full HD standard, 5ms response speed. With Nvidia 3D Vision technology, the Qosmio X770 allows users to experience 3D games or Blu-ray movie discs with the same format as the bundled 3D dynamic glass. In addition, it also has two cameras for chat or 3D photography.

The Qosmio X770 comes equipped with a quad-core Intel Core i7 processor and an Nvidia GeForce GTX 560M graphics card with 1.5GB GDDR5 VRAM memory and a 500GB dual-speed 7,200-rpm hard drive.
