

4 great apps on Android

Google Play is a huge app store for Android devices with nearly 3 million apps to choose from. However, what are the applications that deserve to appear on your device?

In the previous section, you have seen 4 worthwhile apps for Android. Today, we will learn about 4 more apps for Android.

1. Adidas Running App by Runtastic

This is a running application trusted by a lot of Android users because of its smart features and stability.

First of all, like many other running apps, the Adidas Running App by Runtastic can also help you set training goals in different time frames from day, week, month to year. The app allows you to set up a workout plan for 4 subject types: running, walking, cycling and hiking, or you can choose from all four. After making a specific plan, the app will help you to plan each small day in detail to achieve the big final goal.

This application can track the run most accurately with the combination of GPS. With one touch of the middle tab button (Activity) is right to the launcher interface, you just need to press the START button to start running immediately without any cumbersome controls. This is a common design trend in all today's running apps.

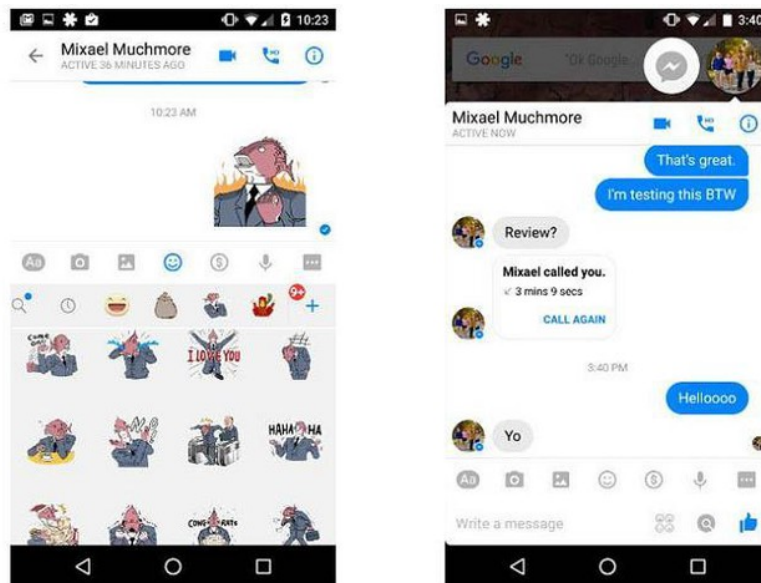

Like other running apps, the Adidas Running App will help you track your training in real time using built-in GPS. Besides, you can view the route running on the default map or live map from satellite.

One plus point of this app is that the Adidas Running App has a sizable runners community. You can join one of the many Adidas Runners groups. Join the community at or near where you live to make it easier and more convenient to attend Adidas events. Join the Adidas Runners community to be provided with the knowledge of running, strength and nutrition necessary for sports training from prestigious experts and coaches in the Vietnamese running village as well as all around the world. They also continuously update events such as Christmas, New Year, International Women . to increase excitement for practitioners.

Moreover, the application will help you statistic all data recorded in each exercise such as distance, speed, time, depth, estimated calories burned, . analyzed in the form of a chart, classifying each indicator, by day, month or year to help you easily track and adjust the exercise plan to best suit. However, to use the most useful feature on this application, you have to spend a large amount of money to experience it which is 9.5 USD per month.

However, the application still encountered a few unsatisfied responses during the application experience. Some people believe that GPS is not working when their score is not increased even though they have run the specified distance. Others can't even sign up for an account. Some users claim that the $ 9.5 a month for a running app is too high and they can't afford it. Overall, with the features and community it offers, the Adidas Running App is well deserved to have a place in your machine with a pretty high rating on Google Play up to 4.6 stars.

2. Facebook Messenger

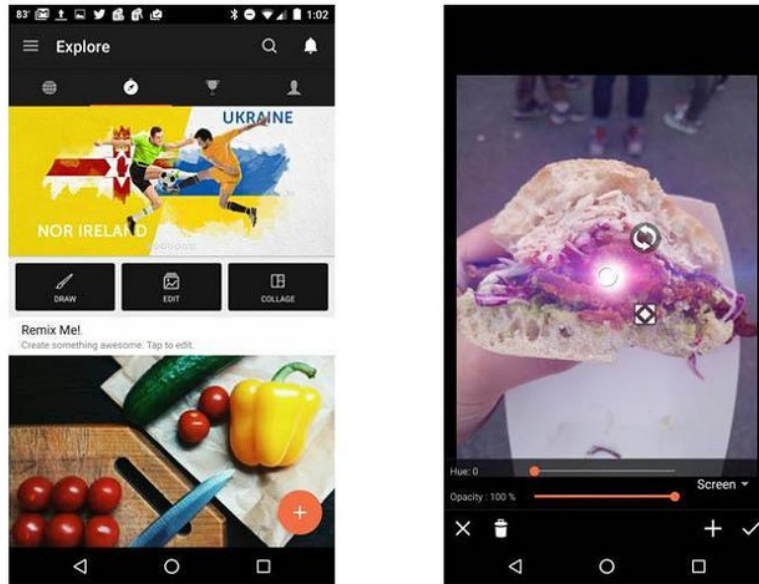

Facebook Messenger is one of the most popular messaging and calling apps on the planet. Because this application is made to sync with Facebook, it will be very convenient for you to make calls to loved ones. Moreover, the video chat experience on Messenger is also quite good. Comes with video calling function are new stickers, filters and general clip viewing feature to help make calls more entertaining.

The interface of Facebook Messenger is also a strong point that users love extremely in this application. The interface is very simple but eye-catching, moreover it is arranged intelligently making it easy for users to get used to and use.

One more special feature of this application is that you can completely change the nickname, the color of the chats makes them more colorful and entertaining.

However, Messenger also has a few minus points that are not worth it. The optimization of this application is not really good, so it takes a lot of RAM on your phone. Sometimes it even crashes itself onto the home screen, reducing the user experience. This application is quite loved by users when it is scored 4.3 stars on Google Play.

3. PicsArt

PicsArt Photo Editor is a photo editing tool, creating unique effects on mobile. The app allows you to transform photos taken with your phone or any other device into unique works of art. You can completely collage and create frames easily and quickly. Nowadays, stitching has become commonplace when users want to show their story or simply want to make the photo more unique. PicsArt provides you professional photo collage tools, users can stitch multiple photos quickly.

In addition, the application provides many frames for users to create and express their personality. Moreover, the ability to edit images to add effects is also a strong point of this application. PicsArt supports you to easily and extremely simple separate backgrounds to remove excess details on images.

PicsArt also owns a treasure trove of stickers with more than 3 million different types to make your photos more special than ever.

The filters of this application are also popular with users. An ordinary photo or video becomes a lot more unique and artistic as you add effects to them. Picsart can completely help you do this with extremely simple and fast operations. The effects store is always updated to catch the most trend. Users can create stickers depending on their preferences. Alternatively, you can set hashtags to describe your sticker and share the sticker with other users.

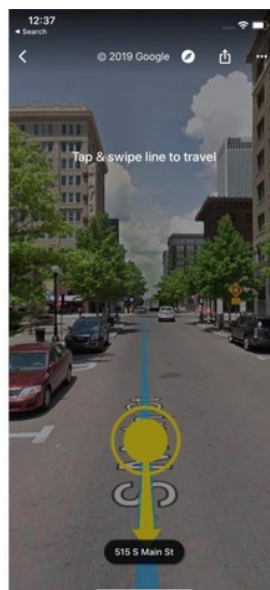

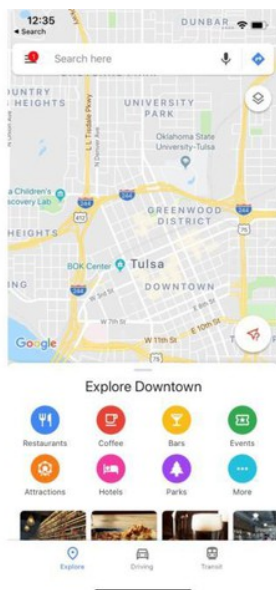

In addition, the share of this application is also very high with the Remix Chat feature. This feature makes it possible to send your photos to other users, who will edit, add filters, . and send back to you, creating an interesting photo chat.

However, the application still has some undue backlog. In recent updates, users have complained about its stability when they think that PicsArt has been confusingly frozen and laggy. Moreover, the trial mechanism of the application is also annoying for the user. The application requires you to enter your information, payment account and after the 3-day trial, the application will automatically charge your card to continue using.

Some users even get annoyed when the ads constantly appear, causing the experience to be reduced. The rather high price of $ 4.66 per month is also a minus point of the application.

4. Google Maps

Google Maps is an online map service developed by Google with the aim of replacing paper maps. It has truly become one of the most useful and popular applications available today. With many useful features, so Google Maps has been chosen by many people to find directions.

In addition to directions, Google Maps also helps you catch the bus, train, train . in real time. Even with the offline map feature, you can view the map even when not connected to the network.

However, sometimes Google Maps also has some quite regrettable errors such as: pointing the wrong way, automatically exiting the application, not showing bus parking spots . Overall, this is still a worthy application to have. a place in your device and it gets user-rated 4.1 stars on Google Play.

You finished reading the article "4 great apps on Android" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.