

4 reasons users should not 'jailbreak' their iPhone, iPod Touch or iPad device

The concept of 'jailbreak' is no longer strange to users of smartphones such as iPhone, iPod Touch or iPad phones. Jailbreak gives us the opportunity to use more applications, improve the performance of the system, but also cause quite a lot of problems and instabilities if not done properly. ...

TipsMake.com - The concept of 'jailbreak' is no longer strange to people using smartphones such as iPhone, iPod Touch or iPad phones. Jailbreak gives us the opportunity to use more applications, improve the performance of the system, but also cause quite a lot of problems and instabilities if not done properly. And here are some expert comments on why we should not continue to jailbreak digital devices.

'Goodbye' stability and safety:

As mentioned above, the jailbreak process will give users more options to enhance performance, expand functionality . but also make the device no longer stable as before. Just a small change in the data structure or support application can cause the program to stop working, and you will have to find the cause to overcome the phenomenon. But once this problem occurs, the repair process is not as simple as with a normal computer.

A fairly simple and commonly used solution is to use the CrashReporter program - it can be downloaded directly and free from Cydia , with the effect of recording all changes in the system, the operating status of programs in the operating system, carefully analyzing the risk of instability of these applications .

On the other hand, in terms of security, the top experts in the world have advised users that they should not jailbreak their phones or tablets. Opening up many other functions for smartphones is also 'opening up' for hackers to break into the system more easily based on the vulnerabilities of that software, operating system or jailbreak errors.

You cannot update or upgrade the iOS operating system as usual:

The update process for jailbroken devices can be considered one of the hardest and time-consuming tasks. Because if we do, we will have to re-jailbreak, reinstall all the appropriate applications and support programs. There are a number of tools available to help users simplify the process, such as Pkgbackup, but are still not smooth when compared to the original iOS. Therefore, very few jailbreak users can proceed to upgrade the operating system periodically, and of course cannot fix common and common errors. Adding a point to note in this, is that Apple can completely track the "traces" left of the jailbroken smartphones if users proceed to update.

Users will have to restore the system more often:

This can be considered as one of the most frequent cases when users conduct jailbreaking phones: the process fails. And of course, they must continue until they are completed until successful. However, in essence, the operating system recovery process is not time-consuming, but the internal data, the album, music, video, photo collections . Sometimes this process can It took 4 hours to complete, and certainly not everyone wants to spend so much time just to make the phone work again as usual.

The jailbreak applications are quite expensive:

If you don't want to pay for programs on the iTunes App Store , you probably don't want to hook it up to the Cydia Store app . Technically, the jailbreak programs are quite good and achieve amazing performance when stable operation, but along with the price and price is also higher than the original programs commonly found on iTunes. .

The above are some of the comments of most experts and the user community, but each has their own views and experiences. We hope that the above information can help you more in the process of using and managing your smartphone. Good luck!

You finished reading the article "4 reasons users should not 'jailbreak' their iPhone, iPod Touch or iPad device" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.