

5 best 75-inch TVs of 2019: are you one of these?

The increasing popularity of large-sized, high-resolution TVs is an example of the increasing need for entertainment.

As society grows and incomes increase, we pay more and more attention to improving the quality of life. For example, the bedroom is now not only a place for you to lean back after a long day at work, but also a private relaxing space, where you enjoy entertainment facilities from modern technology. .

The increasing popularity of large-sized, high-resolution TVs is an example of the increasing need for entertainment. Below is a list of the best 75-inch TVs in 2019 according to experts' reviews as well as user feedback. Of course, these TVs will not be affordable, but if you have a lot of money, a large entertainment space and especially want to improve the quality of life, these are products that are worth watching. consider. Please refer to it now:

5. TCL Television 75R617

If you want a 75-inch high-definition smart TV (4K Ultra HD), fully support the technology you need and, importantly, the price is reasonable, there is no better option than TCL 75R617. .

The two most prominent elements on the TCL 75R617 are the ability to support Dolby Vision HDR and run on the Roku TV smart TV platform with thousands of streaming applications. In addition, the remote control of the TV is also equipped with voice control features as well as 4 extremely convenient channel preset shortcuts.

Reference selling price: 32.5 million dong

4. Samsung Q70 Series

Samsung Q70 Series is equipped with high-quality QLED panels, 4K Ultra HD resolution with HDR10 Plus support and Samsung's exclusive Ambient Mode blends technology.

Samsung Q70 Series runs on smartTV operating system developed by Samsung itself. Support for voice commands with Bixby, Alexa and Google Assistant virtual assistants. In particular, the device also supports both AirPlay 2 and Apple TV application.

Reference selling price: 46 million

3. Vizio PX75-G1

Vizio PX75-G1 is one of the highest rated Quantum Dot TV models on the market today. The advantage of Quantum Dot displays is the ability to cover 100% of the DCI-P3 color space, and often support a wider range of colors than standard LCD screens. This in combination with HDR10, HLG and Dolby Vision technologies gives Quantum Dot excellent visibility.

In addition, Vizio PX75-G1 also supports many different intelligent ecosystems. In addition to support for Alexa and Google Assistant, PX75-G1 also includes Chromecast, Siri, AirPlay 2 and HomeKit.

Reference selling price: 46 million

2. Sony X900F

The display quality of Sony TVs has never been underestimated, and the Sony X900F is no exception. With HDR10, HLG, Dolby Vision technologies combined with 4K Ultra HD resolution, there is absolutely nothing to blame on this panel.

Sony X900F runs on Android TV platform, supports thousands of applications through Play Store and has Alexa and Google Assistant built-in.

Reference selling price: 41.5 million

1. LG C9 Series

LG C9 Series owns 77 inch OLED panel, 4K Ultra HD resolution with HDR10, HLG and Dolby Vision for the ability to display extremely true colors. However, the most notable feature on this TV is its ability to support Nvidia G-Sync and set 1080p / 120Hz, making it a great gaming monitor.

LG C9 comes with Amazon Alexa and Google Assistant built-in, AirPlay 2, Siri and HomeKit, plus a year of free use of the Disney Plus service.

Reference selling price: 115 million

Above are the 5 best 75 inch TV models in 2019, what are your choices?

You finished reading the article "5 best 75-inch TVs of 2019: are you one of these?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
