You have a lot of options when it comes to AI tools, but finding them isn't always easy. Thanks to AI tool directories, you can simply search for the tools that fit your needs. Search through thousands of free and premium AI models and chatbots in seconds.

1. There's An AI For That

There's An AI For That proves there's an AI tool for almost any task. The home page has the latest additions or a look at what's trending. If you've created a free account, check out the For You section to see recommended tools based on your actions on the site.

What makes this one of the best AI tool directories is that you can also search for AI events, jobs, and news. For tools, search by task, character, agent, etc. If you want to stay up to date with the latest additions, you should sign up for the free newsletter.

2. Futurepedia

At Futurepedia, AI is the future, and the site serves as one of the top AI tool directories to keep you up to date with the top AI trends. The homepage has 10 categories, ranging from productivity to audio creation.

While the platform is designed for businesses, you won't have trouble finding plenty of tools for personal use. However, what makes this site unique is the tutorials. You don't just get a bunch of tools and have to figure out the rest yourself. Check out the AI ??for Business and AI Courses sections to learn more. Note that the courses aren't free, but there is a free trial.

3. TopAI.tools

With over 19,000 tools at the time of writing, it's hard not to find something that suits you at TopAI.tools. Search based on your task or need. Or, browse using some of the provided filters, such as open source AI tools, free AI tools, and AI use cases.

Create a free account to save recommendations, get personalized results, and even create collections to share with others. As we all know, advanced AI tools don't come cheap, so check the Deals section regularly for deep discounts.

4. AIxploria

Explore thousands of AI tools on AIxploria. This tool has one of the best search engines among the AI tool directories listed here. In addition to a general search, you can filter results by category, verified, and cost (free, freemium, premium, and free trial). Filtering results here is easier.

Another area where AIxploria shines is its free tutorials. Video tutorials range from 10-15 minutes to over an hour long and will walk you through many popular tools. There's also a Bonus & Extras page under the More menu that offers news, more tutorials, and live events.

5. AI Hustle

Have a side hustle? Then check out AI Hustle. Unlike other AI tool directories that are mostly geared toward large enterprises, this one is all about making side hustles easier. As we all know, trying to do something extra while working a full-time job isn't easy. So look for tools that will save you time while still building a side hustle.

The downside is that there are only a little over 100 tools listed here. This makes it easier to see all your options, but you may have trouble finding more specialized AI tools here. Check out the AI Hustle blog for a deeper dive into how to use different tools and which ones are best for different tasks.

6. SearchTools.AI

With over 10,000 AI tools, you're sure to find something useful at SearchTools.AI. The directory has over 200 categories. You might not even realize there are so many AI tool categories. We recommend using a general search and then using filters to narrow down your results by popularity, price, content type, users, and platform availability.

You're not limited to just AI tools here. Search for GPT and AI apps as well. Be careful when clicking on links, as this site also lists NSFW options. However, you can filter those options when searching.

7. AI Tools Directory

The name says it all. AI Tools Directory lists hundreds of AI tools curated specifically for small business owners, bloggers, writers, musicians, artists, and entrepreneurs. While it doesn't have as many categories as SearchTools.AI, you can easily filter results by over 30 categories along with pricing.
