For a long time, Fantastical 2 has kept the title as one of the best third-party calendar apps on iOS. Many people believe that this is the best calendar app for iPhone.

The real feature that makes Fantastical 2 application shine is the ability to analyze natural language. As you type, the application uses visual clues to show how details will be filled in the event creation field. This feature makes creating new calendar entries faster than ever. The analytics feature also works when you create a prompt.

Another interesting feature is the date ticker. It gives you an overview, easy to understand about all your tasks. There is even an app sync utility with Today's iPhone view mode, Google Maps integration and voice support.

Fantastical 2 is also available as an iPad and Apple Watch application.

Download Fantastical 2 ($ 5 / 115,000 VND).

The image shows a vertical calendar interface for the month of July 2019. The days of the week and dates are listed on the left side of a dark purple bar. The main area is a lighter purple background with event blocks. On Friday, July 19, there is a blue bar representing an 'FB Post' for the 'ALL DAY'. On Saturday, July 20, there is no event. On Sunday, July 21, there is a large white block with the 'Quantrimang' logo (a lightbulb in a circle) and a vertical ellipsis menu icon on the right. On Monday, July 22, there are two event blocks: a blue bar for 'FB Post' (ALL DAY) and a purple bar for 'Todo Startups' from 14:00 to 16:00. On Tuesday, July 23, there is no event. On Wednesday, July 24, there are two event blocks: a blue bar for 'Blog Post' (ALL DAY) and a purple bar for 'FB Post' (ALL DAY). A circular button with a white plus sign is located at the bottom right of the calendar area.

The Italian manufacturer Moleskine is often associated with notebooks rather than smartphone applications, but its Timepage calendar application is very powerful.

Firstly, Timepage looks great. Starting from a company known for 'quality' products, it is not surprising. If you value elegance, then this is the best iPhone calendar app on the list.

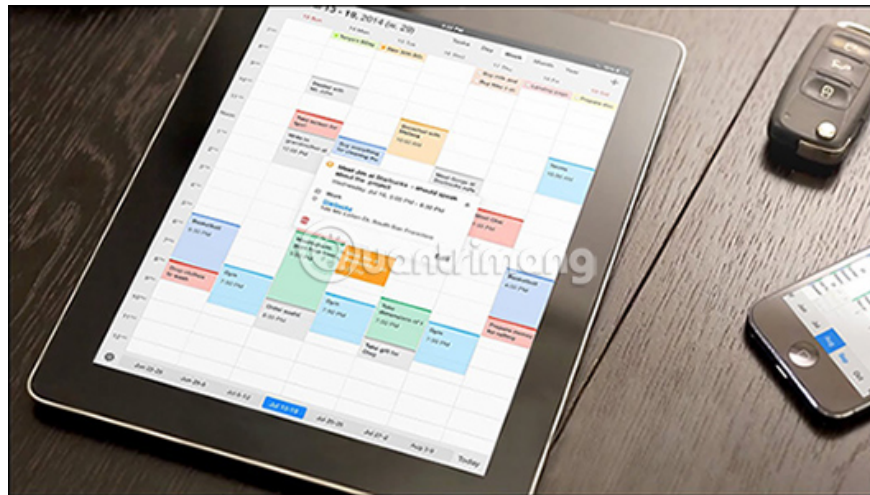

The most unique feature of the application is Heatmap. It puts the circles around the dates in your schedule. The more colorful the circle, the more busy your day.

There is also Siri integration, support for external calendar synchronization (with Google, Outlook, Exchange, Facebook, Yahoo and CalDAV utilities), as well as the Today View widget.

You can download the app for free, but it works by subscription model through in-app purchases. The price per month is $ 2 (VND 46,000) and one year is $ 12 (VND 276,000).

Download Timepage (Free trial, registration required).

3. Calendars 5

Calendars 5 is one of Fantastical 2's biggest competitors.

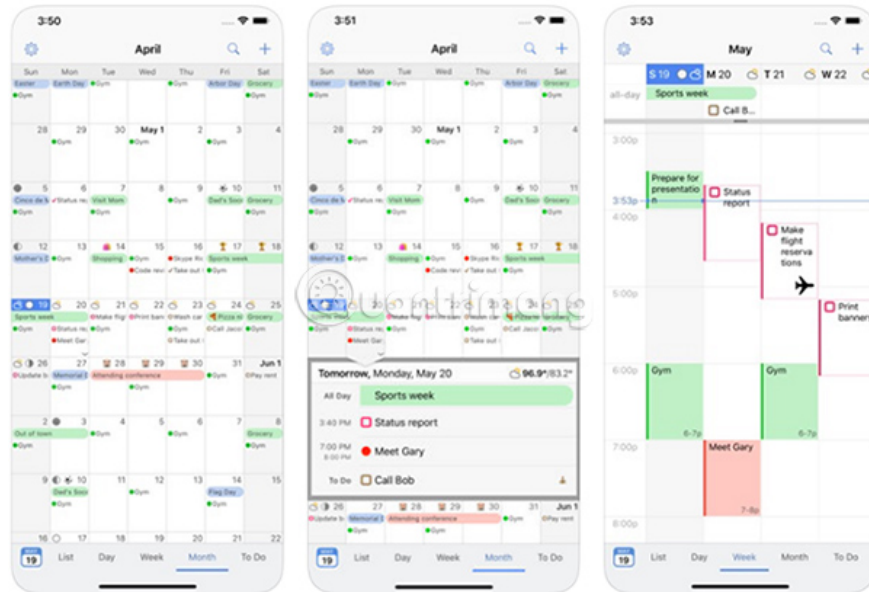

Using this application is very interesting. Moving between different day, week, month and year view modes is also very simple, just swipe in a specific direction. Thus, you can zoom in and out seamlessly to quickly understand what you have planned.

Calendars 5 has an integrated reminder feature. Its prompt will sync with iCloud Reminders, which means you get a consistent content list regardless of which application you use. It also lets you sync your Google Calendar with your iOS device without digging into other iOS settings.

The natural language analytics feature is supported, but it lacks the visual clarity as seen in Fantastical.

Download Calendar 5 ($ 7 / 161,000VND, in-app purchases available).

4. BusyCal

BusyCal is another popular calendar application for iPhone. The company has created one of the best calendars for macOS and the iOS calendar app is a perfect companion.

Some notable features of this application include customizable calendar view, integrated task list manager and support for third-party calendars like Google Calendar, Exchange, Office 365, Fruux, Yahoo, Kerio, etc.

People who spend a lot of time moving will also like to use BusyCal. It automatically displays the travel time to upcoming meetings, supports integration with Google Maps and provides automatic meeting schedule.

Another outstanding feature of BusyCal is the ability to add tags (tags) to the schedule with text and colors. If you spend a lot of time on project management tasks, you may find this useful.

The natural language event creation feature is also available in BusyCal, but again, it's not as intuitive as Fantastical's approach.

Download BusyCal ($ 5 / 115,000 VND).

As you know, Google Calendar can be added to iPhone by downloading the official application. Of course, this is great news for anyone who relies on the Google ecosystem to increase productivity every day. But Google Calendar is worth a try even if you are not an ordinary user.

Google Calendar offers reminders, shared calendars, real-time event updates, automatic RSVP support, customized daily goals and smart scheduling. Check out the list of tools and tricks for Google Calendar for Google Calendar to learn more.

Download Google Calendar (Free).

6. Choiceworks Calendar

What about the iPhone calendar for children? Children do not need all the fancy features that advanced users require. For this purpose, Choiceworks Calendar is probably the most appropriate option. This is a visual-based learning tool that helps young children grasp the concept of time passing.

There are many icons available for holidays, guests, doctor appointments, etc., but you can also add your own images for a customized experience.

A daily countdown tool helps children get hold of how long it will take to events like birthdays and Christmas. Besides, Calendar Choiceworks also has notifications of pictures and sounds very attractive to children.

Download Calendar Choiceworks ($ 5 / 115,000 VND).

7. Things 3

Things 3 is not a calendar application in the traditional sense. Instead, it is the best planning app for iPhone. If you're a calendar app user like a to-do list rather than a daily scheduling tool, Things 3 is worth considering.

You can use the application for everything from miscellaneous thoughts to time management. There is an integrated extension that lets you create events in Things from within other apps on your device and Siri is fully supported.

Drag and drop capabilities are supported to easily rearrange your dates.

Download Things 3 ($ 10 / 230,000 VND).

And don't forget, your iPhone comes with Apple's own Calendar app. Apple Calendar is free to use and syncs with all your other Apple devices via iCloud.

The feature list of this application is not as big as some other applications that the article reviewed. But you can still use it to add Google Calendar to your iPhone, as well as import calendars from Microsoft Exchange, Yahoo and any service that supports CalDAV.

Hopefully, you will be able to find an iPhone calendar application that fits your needs among the options that the article suggests.

To summarize, advanced users should focus on Fantastical 2, Calendar 5 or BusyCal. The best calendar application is Timepage. Besides, the official applications of Apple and Google are always worth considering.

But if you can't find an app you like, don't worry too much. Reference: Top Vietnamese calendar application, see the best sound schedule for your phone to find some other new ideas.

Wish you can choose for yourself the right application!
