

80% of users will not buy iPhone 6 Plus

The information that iPhone 6 Plus is prone to bend if left in a pocket for several hours has greatly affected the decision to buy this device by the devotees.

The information that iPhone 6 Plus is prone to bend if left in a pocket for several hours has greatly affected the decision to buy this device by the devotees.

These days, the hand-cranked footage clips of iPhone 6 Plus appear on many websites and the information that Apple's latest phone is bent immediately received the attention of many users. , especially the devotees of Apples.

With a large size, there is a slender design, frame made from soft aluminum, iPhone 6 Plus and iPhone 6 are thinner than previous iPhone versions. Pressure on the phone when the user sits makes this device prone to curl.

In these cases, technology experts recommend that, in order to avoid bending, iPhone 6 Plus users should not leave the iPhone in a pocket when sitting or bending over.

However, before that information, quite a lot of people have become confused and feel more hesitant when deciding whether to own the latest iPhone generation of Apple.

Recently, Phone Arena website has also investigated the level of interest of users with the question: Is the iPhone 6 Plus error susceptible to bend affect your decision to buy this device?

The results showed that more than 80% of respondents said they were really worried if the iPhone 6 Plus generation was so easily bent. Only about 19% said that this is a very small error compared to the perfect overall of an iPhone 6 Plus and they are still willing to buy this device.

You finished reading the article "80% of users will not buy iPhone 6 Plus" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
