

[CES 2020] MSI announced two high-end Creator 17 and Prestige 14 laptops at the same time

MSI has announced two of its strategic laptops in 2020 at CES.

MSI has announced its two strategic laptops in 2020 on the CES stage today: MSI Creator 17 and MSI Prestige 14. In which Creator 17 will be the first laptop above. The world has a Mini LED screen, as well as the first product to meet HDR 1000 standards with a maximum brightness of up to 1,000 nits.

MSI does not share much about the specifications and internal hardware of Creator 17. Instead, the monitor is the one the manufacturer really wants to show off. The Creator 17 is equipped with a 17-inch Mini LED panel, with a maximum brightness of 1,000 nits, support for HDR 1000 and a wide color gamut of 100% DCI-P3, all of which give the device the ability to display vivid colors, Outstanding authenticity, especially for black and white. So we can see Creator 17 is a product aimed at professional users, designers, content creators.

Of course, you can still trust the Creator 17's performance with the 'must-have' performance of 10th-generation Intel processors, no less than 8GB of RAM, as well as discrete graphics.

Prestige 14, meanwhile, is a product aimed at compactness, elegance and high mobility with an ultra-thin chassis and "premium structure". Prestige 14 basically inherits the design philosophy of the old version with the emphasis is on thinness and high-quality finishing with exquisite diamond trim decoration. Especially the presence of the extremely seductive and feminine pink version.

Despite having a 'slim', 'fragile' appearance, the Prestige 14's hardware configuration is not weak at all. It features a 10th-generation Intel Core i7 CPU (Comet Lake) with up to 6 cores, NVIDIA GeForce GTX 1650 Max-Q GPU, 14-inch 4K screen and up to 10 hours of battery life. , ensure stable performance.

MSI has not yet announced the price and time of the official launch of these two laptops.
