Select the size of microwave oven suitable for the installation location

The size of a microwave can sometimes drastically change the structure of your kitchen, especially for households with small kitchen areas. Therefore, determine the location to place the microwave, carefully measure the length, width and height to set the microwave, so it can be easy to find a microwave of the right size. . Avoid cases where you have to buy the oven too big or too small for your needs.

Choose the right volume

Typically, microwaves for household use usually have a capacity of 17 to 40 liters. You should choose the type of volume that suits your needs as well as the number of family members, avoiding too little or wasteful use. For example, for families with few members of 2-3 people, you can use mini microwave type 17-10l. For families with 3-4 people should choose a microwave oven with a capacity of 20-25l. Families with 5-7 members should choose the type of oven with a capacity of 25-30l. More then you can choose the type over 30l.

Choose the appropriate power level

Currently, microwave ovens usually have a common cooking power of 800W to 1200W. The higher the capacity, the faster and more even the ability to heat or ripen food compared to small capacity ovens. Depending on your needs, you should choose the right capacity. If your family owner uses a microwave to defrost, heat normally, you should choose the type of capacity from 800W - 1000W is enough. If you still use it to serve the needs of baking food, baking, buy it with a high capacity, or buy a separate oven as well.

Choose the right kind of microwave oven

There are many ways to classify microwaves. According to the function of the oven, people mainly classify microwave ovens into 2 types, baked and non-baked. According to the principle of the control panel, it is divided into 2 main types: mechanical microwave and electronic microwave. Therefore, depending on the needs of the family, you can choose the appropriate type of furnace.

Microwave oven price

Prices will sometimes influence the decision of which type of microwave to buy. Currently, the market sells a variety of microwave ovens with different designs, capacities, features and brands, along with many different prices. In general, the price of microwave ovens ranges from 1 million to 25 million VND, of which the 1 to 4 million segment is the most common. Therefore, depending on economic conditions to choose the most suitable one!
