

Accumulated 1,000,000V directly to the device, Nokia 'brick' fired lightning, self-dialed as a ghost

Despite being charged up to 1 million Volt directly into the machine, firing electricity, but the legendary phone is still not scratching, even comfortable as usual.

The YouTube kreosan owner has done an experiment to show that the genuine Nokia 3310 is a 'divine' phone. Despite being charged up to 1 million Volt directly into the machine, firing electricity, but the legendary phone is still not scratching, even comfortable as usual.

This guy has attached the Nokia 3310 to a rack and "pumped" the 1,000,000 charge gradually. At first, blue-violet rays appeared, then the screen went off and then lit up again. Then suddenly the numbers and characters appeared randomly like haunted.