

Acer launched a 20-inch screen laptop

Acer - the computer maker of recent years has gradually regained its reputation and market share - said it launched a new laptop product with an ultra-wide screen that is aimed at home users and students who want to There are substitutes for m & a

On July 31, computer maker Acer launched the Aspire 9800 laptop with a 20.1-inch widescreen display.

Acer - the computer maker of recent years has gradually regained its reputation and market share - said it launched a new laptop product with an ultra-wide screen that is aimed at home users and students who want to There are alternative products for desktop computers and use for business and entertainment purposes.

Aspire 9800 is also a high-resolution graphic computer that can be used for graphic design or high-quality digital movies thanks to the high-resolution DVD-ROM read and write drive. Support dual-layer DVD + RW / DVD-RMW disc and Nvidia GeForce Go graphics chip.

The Aspire 9800 is equipped with a 20.1-inch widescreen display - which is 36% wider than the usual 17-inch screen. The maximum resolution of 1,680 x 1,050 is equivalent to WSXGA + quality, 2.16GHz Intel Core Duo T2600 processor, 2GB RAM, 120GB hard drive, memory card reader, Wi-Fi 802.11, integrated digital camera 1.3 -megapixel .

Aspire 9800 has a reference price of $ 2,799.

Hoang Dung

You finished reading the article "Acer launched a 20-inch screen laptop" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.