

Acer sold 2 million mini laptops in the third quarter

Acer plans to sell 2 million mini laptops in the third quarter of this year worldwide, of which September alone will sell 1 million units.

Acer plans to sell 2 million mini laptops in the third quarter of this year worldwide, of which September alone will sell 1 million units.

Acer currently has only one mini laptop on the market, the Aspire One, but is highly rated for its performance and attractive price. In Vietnam, the white model is equipped with 8 GB SSD drive and Linux operating system costs VND 8.6 million.

The Acer Aspire One is one of the mini laptop models to be reviewed highest today.

There are still models that are cheaper than Acer Aspire One, such as the Asus Eee PC 701 (7-inch screen), but are not equipped with Intel's Atom processor. Models with high configuration with Aspire One have a much higher price.

In November this year, Acer plans to launch the Aspire One model that supports 3G connectivity. Although claiming to sell 2 million mini laptops in the third quarter of this year by Taiwanese computer company, it is still necessary to wait until the end of September to verify, but the above moves can be considered a warning to those New competitors are entering the mini laptop market such as Lenovo, Fujitsu or Dell.

You finished reading the article "Acer sold 2 million mini laptops in the third quarter" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
