

Actual photos of Google Cr-48, laptop running Chrome OS

The Cr-48 has the simplest design with rubber-clad plastic housing, large touchpad and high resolution anti-glare screen.

The Cr-48 has the simplest design with rubber-clad plastic housing, large touchpad and high resolution anti-glare screen.

The first Cr-48s went to lucky developers and users through Chrome OS Pilot Program, a form of its public testing program.

According to Digitimes, Inventec's original equipment maker will ship 60,000 Cr-48s to Google to serve testing and user surveys and especially developers before major commercial versions. mode is available in the market.

Real video Google Cr-48

Here are some photos of the Cr-48 "box", the first laptop to run Google's Chrome operating system.

You finished reading the article "Actual photos of Google Cr-48, laptop running Chrome OS" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
