Launched in 1996, Diablo is one of the legendary games, associated with the childhood of 9x gamers.

Recently a group of developers has successfully brought this legend to a web-based game that allows players to play anywhere, anytime on the browser.

This product is made up of a combination of the Devilution developer team and the Rivsoft mod group.

Everything in Diablo 1 is still as intact as the original design, from bugs to bad code.

To play Diablo 1 directly on the browser, you can visit the website below to install.

However, in order to avoid copyright infringement issues, this website does not provide pre-installed games, but you must upload them from the digital version that costs 10 USD on GOG or DIABDAT.MPQ file in the game disc.

This is a web port of the original Diablo game, based on source code reconstructed by GalaXyHaXz and deviltion team:

If you own the original game, you can drop the original DIABDAT.MPQ onto this page (or click here) to start playing. The game can be purchased from GoG.

Or you can download and play the shareware version instead (50MB download). The site has lately been under too much stress due to users downloading the shareware package, so instead you will need to download it from GitHub, then drop it on the page (or upload by clicking here).

The first interface of the site.

If you don't own the game, you can still try Diablo for free through a shareware version called Diablo Spawn on GitHub. You can download it by going to the website above and clicking on the 'download it from GitHub' line, then clicking 'click here' to download the downloaded file and start playing on your browser.

Upload the spawn.mpq file to be able to play the Diablo demo on the web.

Unfortunately, Diablo Spawn only allows you to play the first 2 dungeons and only choose Warrior class. However, this is enough for those who love Diablo 1 to have a fast train of childhood.

1. Already able to register before the Pokémon Masters
2. Had Dead by Daylight Mobile version for iOS, invited to download and experience
