

Among Us: A live-action version appears extremely dramatic and professional

With the extremely immersive acting, tight storyline and extremely realistic fantasy graphics, the short film Among Us is becoming a noticeable phenomenon on Youtube.

Not only is a hot game in the gaming world today and owns a multitude of fan art, meme, comic and live-action, Among Us also has its own quality short film with the participation of the producer. appearances include Jay Samuelz and Arya Lee.

You can watch clip Among Us live-action here

From the very first minutes, short films have impressed with the same graphics as Hollywood movies. The pounding sound, the gasp, the footsteps and the red lights create a breathtaking and dramatic scene.

Based on the simple and original plot of Among Us, but Jay and Arya have proved themselves to be veteran producers when adding small details to streamline the whole storyline in a very logical and logical way. rigid.

Removing details of the alien creatures turning into astronauts, the short film Among Us brings an unnamed strain of virus originating from the Polus spacecraft. Initially, astronauts and scientists only thought this was just a common rabies virus, but when they realized that this virus had the ability to take control of the brain and turn humans into a serial killer, too late. All Polus crew members were killed and the virus somehow spread to other spacecraft.

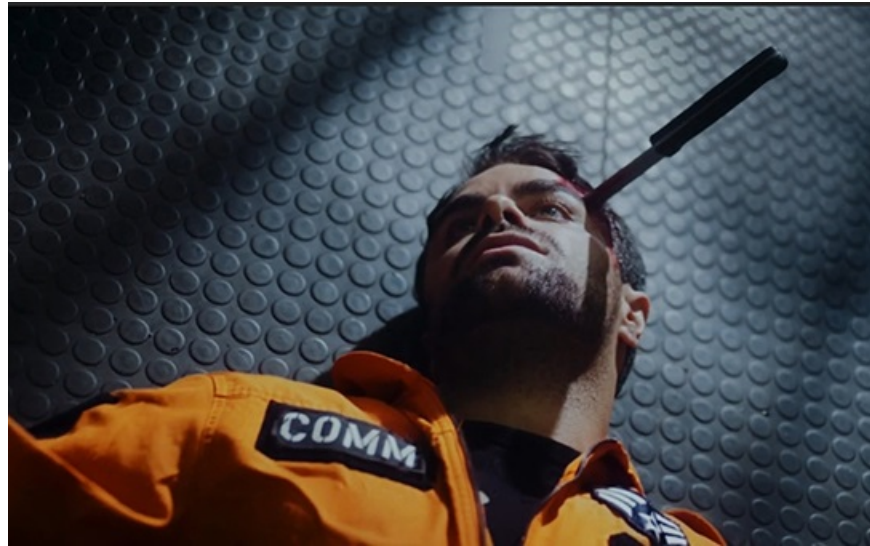

The story begins with the death of Gold, and the guy's death also leads to a series of other troubles. The new Viruss strain can be detected via a scanner at Medbay, but the key to its activation is through Gold's anthropology. Therefore, the rest of the people could do nothing more than argue and find the real Impostor.

Purple was the first suspect. And even though she made a lot of points to defend herself, she was still given a spaceship to be kicked out of the spaceship.

Thought everything was over, but Blue once again discovered Cam - Captain was also murdered by a sharp knife. As the first discoverer, Blue was immediately put into the suspect status. The world suddenly turned when Green accidentally said a "self-destructing" episode and became the one being hunted.

Green was captured and became the next to be expelled. But that is not the end when Black - the one who accuses the others of the strongest and also the one who has never been doubted is actually Impostor and now she has free hands to kill the entire crew. .

An ending that is not happy, but more than enough to satisfy any audience is the most successful thing that short film Among Us has achieved. Although claiming that it is not affiliated with or cooperating with InnerSlot - Among Us's developer, this short film still receives a lot of praise for its authenticity and professionalism in staging and implementing content. story as well as the acting genius of the actors.

You finished reading the article "Among Us: A live-action version appears extremely dramatic and professional" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
