

Appeared to design Microsoft's new Action Center, the corners are more elegant and modern

A few days ago, Microsoft unintentionally revealed the first images of the Start Menu and until today the image of the new Action Center on Windows 10 has just appeared.

A few days ago, Microsoft unintentionally revealed the first images of the Start Menu and until today the image of the new Action Center on Windows 10 has just appeared.

Images shared by Middle account on Reddit show that this new Action Center interface is being tested in Windows Insider program on Windows 10 build version 18947, not the official interface.

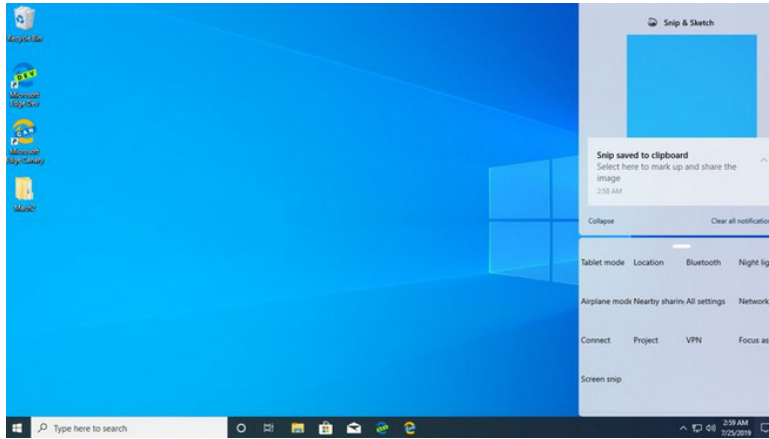

New Action Center interface on Windows 10.

The edges of the new Action Center are rounded out to look beautiful, more modern and blend with the Fluent Design design language that Microsoft is pursuing.

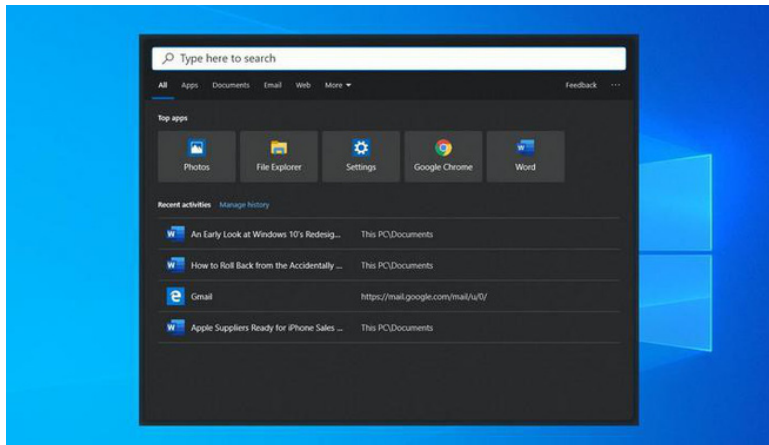

The notification bar section is separated from the quick operation shortcut area, making it easier for users to observe the message while performing a shortcut operation faster.

As such, Windows 10's Center for Notification and Quick Action Center has been redesigned in accordance with the new Light interface on Windows 10.

Action Center's new interface is curled in corners.

If everything goes according to Microsoft's plan, the new interface for Action Center will appear in the update released in the first half of 2020. According to the annual schedule, Microsoft may release this update in January. 4/2020.

New search bar on Windows 10.

The next Windows 10 update this year is expected to be released around October and shows its builds ready for Windows Insider users within the Slow Ring. Meanwhile, new things on the Windows 10 update released in the spring of next year are also available for Fast Ring users to download and experience.

1. Already have Windows 10 Calculator version on Android and iOS, download and experience

You finished reading the article "Appeared to design Microsoft's new Action Center, the corners are more elegant and modern" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.