

Apple announced the date of the WWDC 2024 event, what products will it launch?

Apple recently announced that the 35th annual Worldwide Developers Conference will take place from June 10-14. Like WWDC events since 2020, WWDC 2024 will be an online event open to all developers for free.

WWDC 2024 will include online sessions and labs so developers can learn about new features and software that will be announced at the event.

Apple will use the WWDC 2024 keynote on Monday, June 10 to introduce new features of iOS 18, iPadOS 18, tvOS 18, macOS 15, watchOS 11 and VisionOS 2. This important event will be available on the app. Apple Developer app, Apple website and YouTube, and the company plans to share videos and information throughout the week.

Although WWDC 2024 is an online event, Apple is once again planning a special event for select developers and students, scheduled to take place on June 10 at the Apple Park campus. in Cupertino, California (USA). Attendees will be able to watch the keynote and State of the Union video, meet some Apple employees, and participate in the Apple Design Awards. It is known that the 'Apple family' organized a similar live event last year.

Current Apple Developer program members, Apple Entrepreneur Camp alumni, previous Swift Student Challenge winners, and current Apple Developer Enterprise Program members can submit requests to attend Apple Park event, with the 'Apple family' choosing participants through a random lottery.

Apple will also provide developers with additional information about WWDC 2024 through email, the Apple Developer app, and the Apple Developer website.
