The late CEO Steve Jobs of Apple left on October 5, 2011 three years ago, because of pancreatic cancer. He passed away when he was 56 years old.

Steve Jobs left this day three years ago.

' Sunday is the 3rd anniversary of Steve's departure. I'm sure many of you will think about Steve this day, just like me , "wrote Tim Cook 's email.

' I hope you will take a moment to remember what Steve has done to help the world be better. Children learn new ways through the products he dreams of. The most creative people on the planet use his products to compose symphonies and songs, write everything from novels to poetry to messages. Steve's works for life have helped artists create their masterpieces '.

Tim Cook also wrote that Steve's vision not only stops at the years he was alive, the value he created for Apple will be forever with us. Many of the ideas and projects we are building today began after his death, but his influence - on all of us - is unmistakable . '

' Have fun on the weekend, and thank you for helping bring Steve's legacy into the future .'

Every year, Apple remembers Jobs in many ways on the day he died. Last year, Cook also sent an email to all employees. In 2012, Cook posted a letter on the company's website. And the day after Steve Jobs left in 2011, Apple released a memorial page for Steve Jobs on its homepage, which is still in memory today. Many people are still posting these memorials, deep thanks to Steve Jobs. The website is almost constantly updated, constantly adding words of love and respect for Steve Jobs.

Remembering Steve.

Over a million people from all over the world have shared their memories, thoughts, and feelings about Steve. One thing they all have in common — from personal friends to colleagues to owners of Apple products — is how they've been touched by his passion and creativity.
