List of 10 most obnoxious companies in the world also appeared other big names like Microsoft, Google, Paypal, .

The world absolutely admires Apple products but many people feel annoyed when using them. All Macbook, iPhone, iPad and iPod devices all work great, but only framed in Apple's ecosystem.

Only a few feature "plug and play" or "Drag and Drop" completely when new devices or applications are installed.

Users still have to use iTunes when they want to copy a single image from their phone to a Mac computer. Why can't we have another browser on the iPad? In addition, there is no support for Flash and Google Maps in Apple's mapping technology.

The launch of iPhone 5 is the latest example of user worries, which can be easily avoided. The new phone is a beautiful technology device but its new Lightning adapter with a port of less than 30 charging pins, can charge it fast, but ignores the 2009 EU-bound Treaty on its use. Micro USB as standard device charger in an effort to minimize environmental waste.

Not only Apple loyalists have to buy a new adapter that supports Micro USB, but also devices that use the old 30-foot charging port from previous iPods, iPads and iPhones as well as the volume of extra Third-party events require Lightning converters to connect to the new iPhone.

The lawsuit between Apple and Samsung is a warning to anyone who dares to copy the iPhone's external appearance and touch interface. Inside the Foxcon factory and constant rumors about foul working conditions .

Despite all that, many people still try to get hold of the iPhone 5, simply because they love this device. Apple is still the 8th hateful company on Google 's list.

According to an online survey conducted by Google based on the number of complaints companies receive, Paypal tops the list of the most hated companies in the world. This company has no customer service.

Microsoft ranked fourth on this list. Google ranked 6th and Apple ranked 8th.

Yahoo is not in the Top 10 but also holds a high position (13).

According to Chee-Sing Chan, editor of Enterprise Innovation, although Apple is the world's largest and most admired company, "there are still cracks appearing on the very smooth picture of the legend. Steve Jobs ".
