

Are you sure you have read the names of these 15 technology brands correctly?

The names of brands often contain special meaning in writing or reading. It is noteworthy that many users often read the brand names by habit or based on words similar to the brand name, causing the names of brands to be misread.

Nowadays with the strong development of technology companies, we have the opportunity to reach many famous brands around the world such as Huawei, Xiaomi, Asus or Adobe . However, there is a truth It is most of us not everyone can read the right names of these brands.

The names of brands often contain special meaning in writing or reading. It is noteworthy that many users often read the brand names by habit or based on words similar to the brand name, causing the names of brands to be misread.

If you are skeptical with your own pronunciation, please refer to our following article to check if my pronunciation is 'correct' the names of these famous brands!

1. Samsung

Samsung is probably a name that is no longer strange to most Vietnamese people. Many people often read this technology company as 'impulsive', do you think this pronunciation is true? If you are pronouncing it like that, please change it, because the correct way to read is 'xam xoong'.

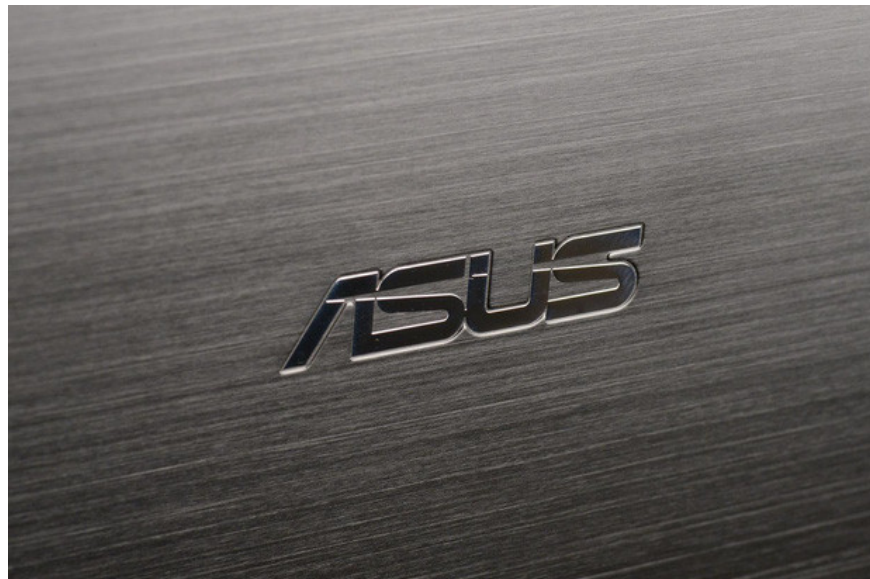

2. Huawei

1. List of devices to be Android 8 - Android O of Samsung, Huawei, LG, Oppo, Sony and HTC

This is a quite new and hot smartphone company in Vietnam market in recent years. It can be said that this is a technology company that is most mispronounced by users in the technology world. Many people are pronounced "scowl", but the correct reading must be "wow".

3. Asus

Asus is a Taiwanese computer hardware manufacturer outside of computers, which also produces more smartphones. If you think this company reads 'slump' then it is completely wrong, it is the right name for this company.

4. Adobe

1. Do you want to learn Adobe Photoshop tips within 1 minute? Take a look at these tutorial videos

For those who regularly use Photoshop image editing software, it is no stranger to Adobe. This company must call it 'a ball' and not a 'a dop'.

5. Xerox

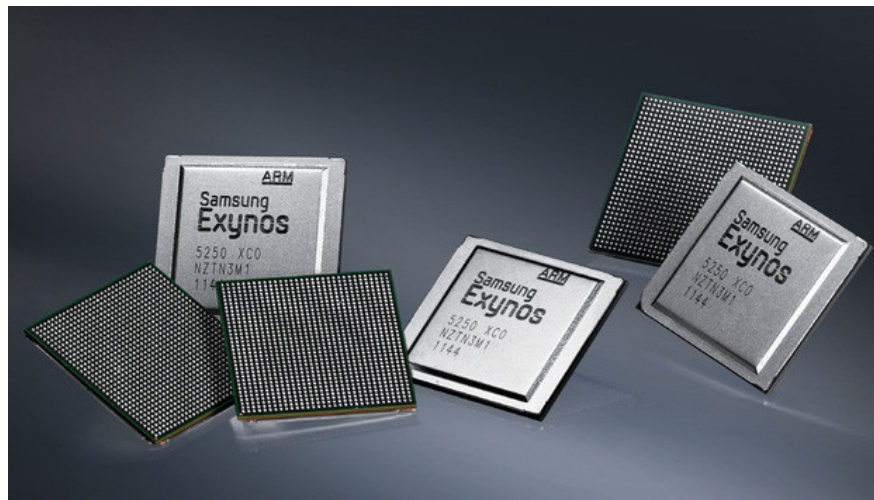

This is a printer manufacturer name. The technology company will be read "zi roóc" rather than "ramble" as people think.

6. McAfee

McAfee Antivirus Plus is a great software to help you prevent any risk from viruses and other threats to computers and MAC devices. It seems difficult to read, but in fact it is very simple, the correct reading will be "the flag of the African flag".

7. Exynos

Exynos is a chip that appears in Samsung smartphones and tablets. This chip is read as "e xi roof".

8. Spotify

Spotify is one of the world's leading online music services. You should not call this music streaming service "touch", but it must be read as "poignant" to be true.

9. Google

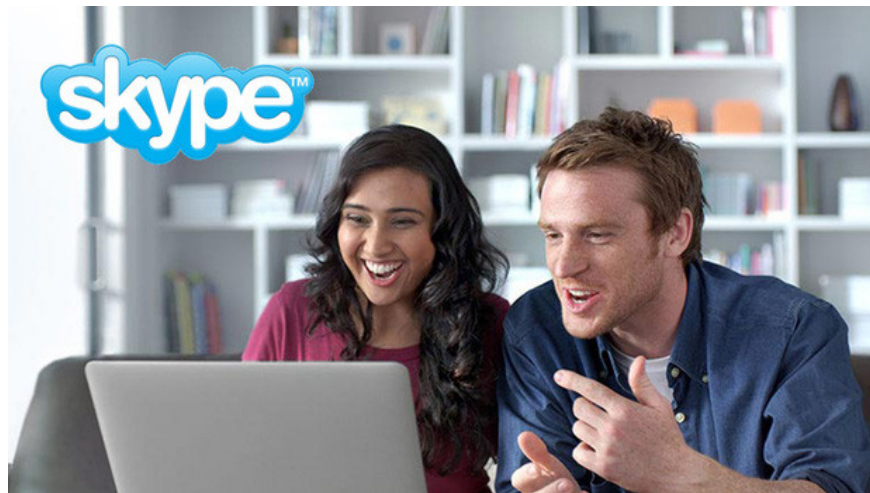

Google is certainly no stranger to us, but many people who often read this technology company are 'rough knots', but it's not like that, its reading is softer than you think.

10. Microsoft

What do you usually read this technology company? "checkered microphone mic"? That's not true, but you have to read "tomorrow's checkerboard."

11. Skype

Skype is a calling software that allows people to go online to talk to each other with sound quality that is no less than a regular phone. However, many of us often read briefly as 'kai', but the correct way to read it here is to be 'shuffled'.

12. Flickr

Flickr is a very popular photo sharing website worldwide. This service is very well known, because when you use it you can share your personal photos that store it as a personal image store. This photo sharing service reader is "lethargic", not "lethargic".

13. Kaspersky

1. Kaspersky launched the "super-security" Kaspersky OS operating system

Kaspersky is one of the most famous computer security companies in the world with quality anti-virus and computer-speed software. We can mention some of its famous software such as Kaspersky Anti-Ransomware Tool for Business, Kaspersky Anti-Virus Remover, Kaspersky Anti-Virus 2017 - Vietnamese . With this software we will read "cat pity", not "cat poop".

14. Leica

For photography enthusiasts, a brand Leica can't help but mention. This is an extremely expensive item, a luxury brand and the most luxurious, making many hearts sobbing and dreaming of owning, it is always the desire of many people. However, many people often pronounce without pronouncing the name of this camera company, the most pronounced pronunciation must be 'transmitting ca'.

15. Lenovo

This is a well known computer manufacturer in the technology village. It is sad when many people often call this company with the name 'drag and drop', this is a completely wrong reading. The best way to read here must be 'silence'. Please note.

How many technology companies have you read correctly in 15 companies? Please comment to the end of the post so we can share and learn!

Wishing everyone happy!

You finished reading the article "Are you sure you have read the names of these 15 technology brands correctly?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

