

Asus launches new high-end laptops

On March 26, Asus officially unveiled the ASUS U2 Series high-end laptops. The manufacturer claims U2 will be a new standard of power and design for laptops. U2 is designed with stainless steel frame and frame

On March 26, Asus officially unveiled the ASUS U2 Series high-end laptops. The manufacturer claims U2 will be a new standard of power and design for laptops.

U2 is designed with a completely hand-polished polished stainless steel frame and leather cover on the surface. The screen and keyboard are linked together by a shiny coating.

Some characteristics of ASUS U2 Series series:

- Energy-saving microprocessor chip Intel Core 2 Duo ULV U7500 1.06GHz
- Intel Wireless Wi-Fi 4965AGN, 802.11a / b / g / n
- Intel 965GM Chipset
- Genuine Windows Vista Business
- WXGA 11.1-inch screen
- 32GB SSD + TPM (Coffee brown version)
- 1.8-inch 120GB HDD + TPM (Black version)
- 4096MB (2048MB x 2) DDRII (Brown coffee version)
- 2048MB (1024MB x 2) DDRII 667 RAM (Black version)
- DVD Super Multi DL
- Webcam
- Bluetooth
- Fingerprint recognition

You finished reading the article "Asus launches new high-end laptops" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
