

Beautiful female hacker 'threatens' Google in China

The 21-year-old girl named Tieu Thien led a group of about 2,200 female hackers who contributed to the successful implementation of the utopian campaign

The 21-year-old girl named Tieu Thien led a group of about 2,200 female hackers who contributed to the successful implementation of the utopian campaign .

Tieu Thien proved not only strong, but good hackers.

Little Tian was born on September 6, 1989 in Hunan Province, China. From the age of 7, she was exposed to information technology and programming. The passion for computers urged her to surpass the "elder", especially male hackers. In 2007, she set up a website dedicated to female hackers called Cn Girl Security Team and attracted the participation of many hackers of the same gender in the country of the Great Wall. Cn Girl Security Team is said to be one of the groups of hackers who have ever attacked Google services.

Recently, David Drummond, a senior Google executive, wrote on the company's blog that it has discovered many sophisticated attacks from China aimed at Google's platform and is considering withdrawing from this country.

In real life, Tieu Thien has an innocent and childish face, often wearing designer clothes, different from what people often think about hackers. This little female hacker also revealed that she used to smoke, especially at night.
