

Birds flying in the sky also have days of death by a group of crabs

Just because of a small accident, the poor bird became a good meal for the hungry crabs. Perhaps this is the only time in the lives of the crabs enjoying the flesh of a flying creature in the sky that normally doesn't think they dare to think about!

The story between crabs and seagulls recorded through realistic footage shows us a small root of the harsh survival battles in the natural world. The video is quoted in a documentary called Winged Migration 2001 - Migratory Birds, made by French director Jacques Perrin.

During the migration process, a seagull unfortunately broke a wing by colliding with other animals in the herd. Worse, he fell to a sandy beach, "headquarters" of hungry crabs. Immediately, the crabs surrounded and rushed to attack the poor seagull.

Just because of a small accident, the poor bird became a good meal for the hungry crabs. Perhaps this is the only time in the lives of the crabs enjoying the flesh of a flying creature in the sky that normally doesn't think they dare to think about!

1. The fierce battle between python and giant crow bats, "the eight-headed, half-weighted person"
2. Komodo assassin dragon slayed a giant buffalo buffalo with a cup

You finished reading the article "Birds flying in the sky also have days of death by a group of crabs" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

---