

Blind gamers take down 7,600 networks in the game Call of Duty: WWII

You have the nickname of the blind gamer who has lost his eyesight due to a serious disease but with the passion of playing the game, this guy has used in-game sound to guess the opponent's position and the prison is total 7,600 competitors in the cult game Call of Duty: WWII.

Youtuber with the nickname "tj the blind gamer" lost his eyesight due to retinopathy due to premature birth but with the passion of playing the game he used in-game sound to guess the opponent's position and defeat The prison is a total of 7,600 opponents in the cult game "Call of Duty: WWII".

TJ is now 19 years old and currently lives in Utah. TJ loves Call of Duty especially 2 parts WWII and Black Ops III. This guy played Zombie mode in Call of Duty: World at War from the age of 8 and then switched to playing Multiplayer in Call of Duty: Modern Warfare 2.

But TJ's eyesight began to suffer, he was forced to wear glasses and could only see with his right eye. Even so, TJ continues to play Black Ops II and Black Ops III in the Call of Duty series. Finally, TJ lost her eyesight completely.

Talking about how to play Call of Duty even without seeing the opponent, TJ said: "When I tried to play Call of Duty again, even though I didn't see it, I felt extremely difficult. Before that, I Never used headphones as much as when playing games without seeing anything like this. "

'In Black Ops III there are many settings and tweaks to support disabled players. For example, in Awareness mode that will amplify the distance of the enemy's footsteps, Sixth Sense creates a visual effect that supports deaf people and sound effects that support visually impaired people ' .

In addition, Call of Duty with the help of Alexa assistant along with new features will help TJ control and get better game data. Not only receiving instructions, indicators and game progress, Alexa also helps TJ know if his friends are online.

Video TJ explains his health condition and how to play Call of Duty:

TJ hopes he can defeat 10,000 in Call of Duty: WWII in the future. Not just playing Call of Duty but also playing . Diablo III.

See more:

1. OpenAI artificial intelligence defeated 5 professional Dota 2 players
2. Play Fortnite on an 80-inch IMAX screen, a completely new peak experience
3. Neymar's eating habits have been put into entertainment games on Android, completely free to download and experience

You finished reading the article "Blind gamers take down 7,600 networks in the game Call of Duty: WWII" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.