In the near future, on August 8, Bkav will launch the Vietnamese market with a second super product named Bphone. Although not yet officially released, but this product has received special attention of many people. According to some unofficial sources, the phone is about to be released, will be called Bphone 2017. Also according to this source, they also said the configuration of the Bphone 2107 will be very terrible, screen 5 , 5 inch Full HD 1080p resolution, using 8-core processor speed of 2GHz. Machine will have main camera resolution of 21MP 4K video recording, 5MP front camera.

Bkav has not confirmed any official information around the Bphone, but many speculate that this new generation Bphone, Bkav will have a more modern and luxurious design than the generation. before. With a terrible configuration of Qualcomm Snapdragon 835 chip, this new Bphone is considered a product with strong processor. Unlike the old version.

With Snapdragon 835 processor, this Bphone will use 4GB RAM, up to 128GB internal memory will help users avoid shock and lag when installing heavy applications. Besides the 4100 mAh battery combined fast charging technology is also a remarkable point in this new smartphone. And for the lower version will use 3GB RAM. According to the current trend, Bphone is capable of using a USB-C interface instead of the usual microUSB port. The device will probably use a metal frame with two front and back glass as it was designed on Bphone launched in 2015.

Besides, Bphone 2 also owns the rear camera with 21MP resolution and the 5MP front camera is expected to bring high quality photography.

Thus, this launch - scheduled to take place on 8/8 - Bkav can launch at least 2 Bphone versions with different configurations. Mobile World has confirmed that it will sell Bphone in this system.

At present, Bkav has not made any official action or statement before the information on the sale date, the configuration or name of the next-generation Bphone will be released in early August.
