

CES 2012 event will be the festival of Ultrabook

At last year's Consumer Electronics Fair (CES) event, the tablet picked up the attention of the public with more than 100 new tablet models released.

At last year's Consumer Electronics Fair (CES) event, the tablet picked up the attention of the public with more than 100 new models of tablets released .

By the upcoming CES period in January 2012, the focal point of the tablet promises to be ported to Intel's Ultrabook models.

Accordingly, the Taiwan Economic News website has revealed that CES 2012 will have the opportunity to witness more than 50 new Ultrabook models, bringing ultra-thin, ultra-light notebooks with high-end models and very durable batteries to become class. The most attractive item at CES 2012.

The company that started Intel is also excited to say that there will be more than 60 different Ultrabook models coming out next year, in which their Ivy Bridge processor will be equipped on many Ultrabook models.

Before the steps of the above-mentioned strides, the new laptop model is expected to have a brighter year, after this type of device started quite slowly, due to the influence of the global PC market is in less bright condition.

The series of 'giants' including Acer, ASUS, Lenovo and Toshiba has only shipped the total number of Ultrabooks of 50,000 units in the past.

You finished reading the article "CES 2012 event will be the festival of Ultrabook" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

