

Change URL into a funny emoji icon, have you tried it?

Instead of the traditional URL for the website, you can refresh the website link with extremely new and unique emoji icons.

Web addresses are written by page name or by any name so that users can easily remember to access it. However, if you want to create new points, transform your website address into a completely unique way, you can use Linkmoji service. This service will bring web addresses from the usual letters into extremely fancy emoji icons.

We can choose the emoji icon for the website URL, or use the random emoji that Linkmoji has created for you. Once created, users can send this URL to anyone for them to access. Join the Network Administrator to learn how to do it in the article below.
