

Chrome adds a tab notification icon that is playing music

Google recently launched Chrome 32 beta with some improvements and additions, most notably the speaker icon next to the sound card. Besides, Chrome also tells you which tab is using the webcam, which tab is playing the TV program.

Google recently launched Chrome 32 beta with some improvements and additions, most notably the speaker icon next to the sound card. Besides, Chrome also tells you which tab is using the webcam, which tab is playing the TV program.

This is a small feature but promises to be useful for users. The need to browse the web on multiple cards at the same time is huge. And during use, there may be web tags that will run advertisements. The new feature will help you quickly determine which tabs are playing audio and video ads to turn off.

Chrome 32 beta also adds Safe Browsing to automatically lock files containing malware. The Chrome for Windows 8 application is also refreshed in the version for the Modern UI interface. Interested users can download the trial version of Chrome 32 beta here.

You finished reading the article "Chrome adds a tab notification icon that is playing music" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.