Whether the cause is due to a nuclear war or a zombie pandemic that caused the end of the world, Vivos Group wants you to be in a position to fully prepare and be ready to deal with all problems. The California-based company builds and maintains huge, solid " shelters " that are sold to the world's wealthiest families for refuge in the days of Earth's destruction .

Vivos xPoint - the newly developed place - is advertised as the largest-scale shelter in the world. The capacity of these shelters can be up to 5,000 people and can withstand shocks equivalent to 22.6 thousand tons of explosives. Invite readers to visit inside these " shelter basements "!

Vivos Group said: " This is where you want to go when the world situation gets worse " .

This area has 575 blocks built with concrete and reinforced reinforcement.

Located in South Dakota, which was built by the US Army Corps of Engineers in 1942, it served as a military fortress to store explosives and ammunition.

These " shelter bunkers " were built to withstand shocks equivalent to 22.6 thousand tons of explosives.

Since 1967, these bases have been removed, so the blocks become desolate. Vivos Group bought this asset block in 2016 and turned it into "ultimate shelter".

These shelters are about 26 feet in width and 60 to 80 feet in length (approximately 18 ~ 20 meters). Vivos said: "There are places that can provide supplies of necessities for more than a year."

The buyer will receive the basement (as shown below) without including plumbing, electricity or air purifiers. They can hire a Vivos group contractor or service provider to equip the world with necessities.

Vivos can meet other tenants' needs. The company estimates the cost of retrofitting each shelter - including explosion-proof doors, inner locks, an outlet, ventilation and exhaust pipes, propane generators, fuel tanks, wiring systems, electricity, water pipes, water heaters, septic systems - worth about $ 12,000. If some other works such as walls, floors, energy storage rooms, the price can be up to 20,300 USD. These bunkers are in grade 10 for quality but the buyer can choose to turn the cellar into a deluxe suite for families. This outline drawing shows that LED screens can replace windows.

In this drawing, we can see that they consist of 3 bedrooms, a kitchen, a living room, a dressing room and a home theater. The door suffered from explosion not large enough to make a garage.

Some of the facilities provided include a full-time employee for security, maintenance and other assistance. Vivos also intends to install a department store.

Vivos hopes to complete department stores and offices with staff quarters for next fall. Vivos also plans to turn a blockhouse into a dedicated school and training space next fall. However, the company will not support education, rather it does not create a space for education.

The contract for renting a cellar in 99 years is worth USD 1,000 per year for a cellar with an advance deposit of USD 25,000. Vivos expects the cost of cultivation, including interior decoration, to be many times that number.

Vivos is currently booking and plans to organize tours in March 2017 when the snow is over. Guests who register to rent in the first time can move in at the beginning of next summer.

The application process requires a tour, judicial background check and $ 5,000 in full refund. For some people, money is nothing compared to safety.
