

Collection of iPhone Widget customization applications

iOS 14 has many changes in features, especially the ability to customize the widget home screen interface. Some widget customization applications will provide more rich widget interfaces.

iOS 14 has many changes in completely new home screen features and interface, especially the feature to customize the widget home screen interface. Widgets are small utilities such as weather, music, calendar, and we can arbitrarily arrange widgets on the screen for convenience and resize if desired. However, the widget customization features available on iOS 14 are only at a basic level, not really meeting the needs of many people who like new things. If so, you can try some widget customization applications, providing more rich interfaces. The article below will summarize some applications to change iOS 14 widgets.

1. Widgetsmith

Widgets smith is being downloaded and used by many people as it offers many options for you to create your own widgets as you like, from size, color or even use your own images to quickly create widgets. Users will rely on the widget templates provided by the application, or existing content and then change it as they wish.

2. Photo Widget: Simple

If you want to change the look of your Home screen with your photo widget, then Photo Widget: Simple is a suitable application. You can add 30 images to create a widget and automatically transfer images according to the album you uploaded to Photo Widget: Simple.

4. Steve - The Jumping Dinosaur!

If you are passionate about Chrome's dinosaur game, you definitely cannot miss this widget. The widget will recreate the dinosaur game right on the iPhone, along with many different characters for us to unlock. You just need to add the widget to the widget screen to play the game. Along the way, you will collect coins to unlock characters. It's also a fun way to entertain yourself when you don't know what to do or when your network is cut off.
