

Compaq CQ42 uses a quad-core chip costing 10 million in Vietnam

CQ42 version uses a powerful AMD Phenom II processor, 2GB of 320GB hard drive costs only about 10 million VND.

CQ42 version uses a powerful AMD Phenom II processor, 2GB of 320GB hard drive costs only about 10 million VND.

CQ42 is one of the best-selling cheap laptops in Vietnam.

New Compaq CQ42 series in Vietnam including 222AX, 223AX, 218AX, 219AX versions all equipped with four-core AMD Phenom II Quad-Core processor, ATI Radeon HD 545v graphics card for watching high-definition video and Play some games. In some models, the hard drive can reach a maximum capacity of up to 500GB speed of 7,200 rpm.

Reference configuration for CQ42-223AX model includes 14-inch screen, AMD Phenom II 2-GHz Quad-Core N930, 2GB DDR3 RAM memory, 320GB hard drive, optical read / write DVD drive and graphics card ATI Radeon HD 545V graphics capacity VRAM 512MB.

The new version of AMD's quad-core processor is quite attractive.

The above configuration version is sold at reference price of VND 9,799,000 (excluding VAT) in Vietnam with the same promotion as phone worth more than VND 1 million.

You finished reading the article "Compaq CQ42 uses a quad-core chip costing 10 million in Vietnam" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.