

Dark matter, dark energy and unexplored mysteries

All atoms, stars, planets, trees, rocks, people, animals make up less than 5% of the known universe. About 70% is dark energy and 25% is dark matter.

All atoms, stars, planets, trees, rocks, people, animals make up less than 5% of the known universe. About 70% is dark energy and 25% is dark matter. Today, even though dark matter and dark energy exist, we don't have any clues about them.

1. 9 amazing facts about the universe amaze you
2. The 9 biggest mysteries of modern physics make scientists headaches (Part 1)
3. The 9 biggest mysteries of modern physics make scientists headaches (Part 2)

So, people know nothing about dark matter and dark energy, an important component that makes up most of the structure of the universe. Check out the video below to find out!

You finished reading the article "Dark matter, dark energy and unexplored mysteries" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.