Many people believe that pigs or pigs are a sign of death. When the pig bird called at the beginning of the house, the house was about to be lost, 7 hours calling for men and 9 hours calling for women. They believe that when a dying person releases a characteristic odor only of pig birds, it is discovered and alerted by sensitive hearing.

It is because of that notion that pig birds considered demons bring bad omen and be hated, changed, even killed.

Pig birds are a useful animal

Pig owl is a medium and large owl. They have a big head, strong legs with sharp claws and especially a flat disc-like face, with a heart-shaped shape made of feathers. These feathers work to locate and amplify sound when hunting. In Vietnam, a number of species of pigs are collectively referred to as pig birds because their cries sound like pigs.

Pig owl is a bird of prey, mainly at night. The most favorite dish of pig birds is rats, insects, lizards and some other birds. Pig birds often live in pairs or alone and do not migrate.

Contrary to the slow, calm and mysterious appearance, pig birds are really a killer killer. In the dark, its keen eyes could see a small mouse running at a distance of a hundred meters. With the speed of a wind and knife-like nails, no prey can escape death when they are "targeted".

In Vietnam, there are 3 species of pig owl, in addition to the oriental boar pig, both the gray-backed pig and the brown-backed pig are classified as the natural enemies of rats, strictly banned from exploitation.

The wild boar is a species of aesthetic and scientific value, a precious genetic resource. Currently, the wild boar is included in the Vietnam Red Book due to the small number of individuals (it has not been determined how many individuals exist in nature) and rare.

Is it true that pig birds anticipate human death?

Pig birds "reported death" is a misunderstanding. Due to the characteristics of the feed source of pig birds often live close to people, they often call in residential areas, on the roof, in the garden is completely understandable. Pig birds use cries to scare their prey, causing them to run away in panic, then the pig birds will easily discover.

In addition, the demand for food during the breeding period of pigs is so high that they must strive to hunt more. That means they also cry more.

Pig birds are nocturnal, their voices echoing amidst a quiet space that many people fear and associate with mysterious things. In fact, even though pig birds do not cry, many people still die.

Although the pig bird is a natural enemy, it is very valuable and useful but because of the monstrous conception, they have to carry a petty sound. In the world, people consider pig birds to be a unique and beautiful bird, because they have a funny heart-shaped face and silky hair with many beautiful patterns.
