

Dell introduced the new Ultra-durable Latitude series

The Latitude E6410 ATG stands out for meeting the US military's durability standards

The Latitude E6410 ATG stands out for meeting the US military's durability standards .

ATG Latitude E6410 possesses masculine rough lines. Photo: Dell .

After the previous two models, E6510 and E6410, Dell continues to introduce the expanded version of the Latitude E6410 ATG with a strong and masculine look. Most prominent in this model of Dell is the machine that meets MIL STD 810G standard (standard of durability on the US military's battlefield) such as water resistance, shock, shock, vibration, temperature and extreme humidity.

Latitude E6410 ATG owns 14-inch LED backlight screen with a resolution of 1,280 x 800 pixels with anti-glare technology that helps to look outdoors better. The device is equipped with hardware including Intel Core i5 or i7 processor, Intel integrated graphics chip, 8GB of DDR3 memory, a traditional hard drive of 500 GB or 256 GB solid-state drive with optical drive read / write DVD or Blu-ray.

The device only targets certain users. Photo: Dell .

Dell's new laptop also has connections like mobile broadband, Wi-Fi standard n, latest Bluetooth 3.0, modem, 4 USB ports, one USB port / eSATA combo, VGA, DisplayPort output, 6-card reader remember, PCMCIA slots and ExpressCard, webcams and stereo speakers.

Latitude E6410 ATG weighs 2.59 kg with a 6 cell battery that comes with Windows 7 or Windows Vista operating system preinstalled.

Dell is currently available for configuration options on its website with prices starting at $ 2,114 (prices in the US market).

You finished reading the article "Dell introduced the new Ultra-durable Latitude series" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.