

Diablo IV was officially announced, top notch graphics, impressive trailers

Blizzard has announced Diablo IV on the stage of BlizzCon 2019.

Blockbuster has exploded with the global gaming community. Yes, after waiting for countless rumors, the 'thermonuclear bomb' named Diablo IV officially exploded last night in front of the broken emotions of millions of fans of the legendary Diablo series. .

Yes, Blizzard has announced Diablo IV on the stage of BlizzCon 2019 taking place in California, USA. During the past few months, there have been many rumors about elements in Diablo IV such as the plot, gameplay or Class (character class) of the game, and all have been somewhat clarified with the trailer. The impression Blizzard launched last night.

Accordingly, it is likely that there will be 3 character classes appearing in the original version of the game, including Druid (a type of beastman), Mage (magician) and Barbarian (melee character that has been exported from previous installments), corresponding to 3 types of damage: Natural damage combined with animal chemistry, magic damage and physical damage. Add to that the first appearance of mounts. There is very little official information about Diablo IV yet to be revealed.

Diablo IV marks an especially important comeback of the popular Diablo series after nearly 7 years (Diablo III was released in 2012 and is still one of the most popular RPG games in the world right now) . However, unlike Diablo III, in this fourth version, the game will return to the typical dark, demonic, and creepy atmosphere that most fans are familiar with from the first part. There is still a fictional world called the Sanctuary - a kingdom where people must fight against demons called Prime Evils.

Diablo IV will be available for PC, PlayStation 4 and Xbox One, but Blizzard has yet to announce a specific release date. Most likely the game will officially be on sale in the spring of next year, We have been patiently waiting for 7 years, maybe waiting a few more months is not a big deal!

You finished reading the article "Diablo IV was officially announced, top notch graphics, impressive trailers" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.