There are many life simulator, survival games that challenge gamers to find a way to survive and thrive in extreme places. However, most of them take place in locations of a tropical or jungle nature. If you are looking for something fresh, a change of pace, then Dinkum is a great choice.

Dinkum is a survival game set in an Australian inspired region. There are mother-of-pearl groves, eucalyptus forests, and even scorching deserts. Players will be tasked with finding natural resources in these places and using them to craft and build a life for themselves.

Over time, from living in a hut, gamers will become the head of a large community built by themselves. The road to your own town will be long and arduous, but the following tips and tricks will help novice Dinkum conquer the outback and become the last survivor.

Reserve money in the game

At the beginning of the game, gamers will need to get as much money as possible because it will bring supplies and equipment, which take a long time to own.

Luckily there is a great way to make a lot of money very quickly. What to do is get fishing rods and bug nets and use them as much as possible. Catching fish and bugs is completely free and selling them will bring a lot of money.

In the early hours, spend part of the time catching bugs and fishing to accumulate money for the later part of the game. This can be tedious for some people, especially since there's so much to do, but these activities can be quite enjoyable and relaxing when the right rhythm is found.

Chopping and planting trees

Once they've stabilized their base, players will want to find ways to get more of the resources they need. A great way to do this is to cut down some trees and collect the seeds that fall off. Each tree that is cut will drop 2 seeds.

After that, gamers can take the seeds you collect and plant them anywhere they want. What everyone should do is establish orchards close to where they live. Each tree will provide 2 seeds, so everyone will get twice as many trees.

These orchards can grow very quickly and they are a great way to obtain a diverse source of different fruits as well as a steady supply of wood, which is essential for building and crafting. .

Collect permit points

One of the coolest mechanics in Dinkum is the milestone system. Every time you complete an action a certain number of times, you'll complete a milestone, which can then be exchanged for permit points.

Permit points are the most valuable currency, more than cash in the game. Gamers use them to purchase licenses from notebooks, which provide all sorts of extra functions and features.

At the beginning of the game, using points allows the player to unlock the ability to mine and dig. It will then provide important abilities and people need to balance unlocking new abilities with upgrading existing ones.
