Poveglia Island , a beautiful but uninhabited island in northern Italy is said to be haunted with thousands of scary and mysterious stories. Let's explore the macabre mystery in the place that is said to be the scariest haunting place in this world.

What made the beautiful island of Poveglia become one of the most haunted places in the world?

Poveglia is a small island with an area of 6.8 hectares located in the area of Venice, northern Italy. An island has a "charming" beauty but no one dares to live here because of the myths about demons attached to it that make anyone listen to their hair.

In the Roman period, when the epidemic raged, the authorities arrested the infected people to Poveglia island to isolate the healthy people.

In the 14th century, when the "Black Death" - the Plague occurred in the 1350s, one of the most terrible pandemics of mankind exploded, the island was used for the same purpose. All people who die from epidemics are put in large and scorching holes. Even the newly symptomatic patients were taken to Poveglia island and burned alive.

It is estimated that around 160,000 people were burned at the island during the outbreak. The ash of the dead covers the entire island and their souls are responsible for the mysterious and strange phenomena here.

Strange and mysterious phenomena always appear on this island

The terrible things that happened on the island did not stop there. In 1922, a large mental hospital was built here with a bell tower. Patients with unstable psychology confirmed that they saw the spirits of the victims of the plague being burned around the hospital and screaming all night. Doctors and nurses think this is a manifestation of mental illness so no one believes them.

A doctor working here has taken advantage of this to torture patients. This evil doctor took them to the bell tower and tortured them with surgeries with hammers, punches and hand drills.

Psychiatric hospital built on the island

This brutal torture only stops when the doctor himself is revenge on the ghosts of his victims. In the end, this evil doctor was so scared that he jumped down from the bell tower but did not die.

A nurse witnessed the incident and said that when he was lying in pain on the ground, a mysterious fog suddenly appeared and strangled his neck to death. He also became a ghost on this island.

After that, the hospital was also closed. The island was abandoned.

In 1960, Italy sold the island to the private. After that, the island was changed hands a few times but every time the new owner also left after only a short time, even they could not stay one night. The screams and bells still sounded every night even though no one lived on this haunted land .

A man once bravely slept one night on this island. But as soon as he stepped into the abandoned mental hospital, he had to turn and flee immediately when he heard a strange voice saying, "Get out of here and don't come back . "

Some psychologists were curious and went to this haunted island to find out the facts but they all returned with fear and insisted on never going back there again. Even the adventurous, adventurous people are also frightened by the gloomy, cold atmosphere when they arrive here.

Currently, Poveglia has no owners. Exit here is prohibited. Grape harvest season is the only time someone set foot on this island.

Occasionally the waves will show off the bones of dead people.
