2. With a simple trap, the boy caught the bird bigger than his own

Despite being caught by the dog in his mouth, the diving bird still struggles to escape. The tense tension took place about 30 seconds before the diving bird was drowned in the water. Soon after, two animals emerged and the diving bird continued to slaughter the enemy in order to escape.

When the war was getting tense, a witness threw the stick into the water, causing the dog to swim away under the water and help the bird escape successfully.

A witness returned to this interesting scene on a river in Zegveld, Netherlands.

Dog fish are fast-paced predators. Their staple food is small sized fish and amphibians but they also hunt any animal that their jaws have caught.
